RAISE QUESTION OF DEMOCRATIC ABILITY TO RULE

Roosevelt Deserted by Majority.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—With the President and congress at war and with Mr. Roosevelt no longer able to muster a majority of his party to his support, the outstanding question this week-end is the capacity of the Democratic party, as now constituted, to govern the country.

The question was pointedly raised yesterday by Republican orators who pictured the country under the Roosevelt régime as a rudderless ship drifting none knows whither. That the question has been raised justifiably is admitted privately by many Democratic leaders and was tacitly conceded by the call for a caucus of house Democrats next Tuesday.

At that time an effort will be made to close the badly shattered Democratic ranks. In the senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.] is similarly striving to stem the tide of Democratic disaffection.

Defeated in Both Houses.

On the first piece of legislation by this 76th congress—the relief deficiency appropriation—the President was signally defeated in both houses despite the overwhelming Democratic majority in each branch. The 150 million dollar cut in the 875 millions asked by the President was a repudiation by congress of the Roosevelt spending policies, an initiation of an economy program, and a legislative finding that the relief rolls are padded at least 10 per cent with malingerers and political hangers-on.

On the Judge Floyd H. Roberts appointment in the senate the President suffered a defeat more overwhelming than any of his predecessors. The nomination was rejected by a vote of 72 to 9, only eight Democrats supporting the President.

Now it appears that the President is destined for reverses on his reorganization plan—the bill to revise the national labor relations act and other legislation as well as on other appointments to office. At the close of a week of hearings on his qualifications the indications were that the nomination of Thomas R. Amlie of Wisconsin for member of the interstate commerce commission will be rejected because of his radicalism.

Rift Widening Daily.

The rift between executive and legislative branches is widening daily. The President is resentful of the conservative trend of congress, reflecting the conservative state of the public mind revealed by the November elections in which he and his party experienced marked reverses throughout the northern states. Mr. Roosevelt has given full rein to his anger, hurling such epithets as "lie" and "boob" at Capitol hill. Democratic legislators such as Senator Carter Glass of Virginia have returned the compliment.

The President accuses the senate of invading his prerogative of appointment. The senate accuses the President of denying that body its constitutional right to "advise" him on appointments. Even a 100 per cent New Dealer, Senator Elbert D. Thomas [D., Utah], viewed the President's attitude as a manifestation of dictatorship.

Put Blame on President.

Democratic leaders, including some whose loyalty to the President never has been questioned, are muttering over the low state to which their party has been brought by the breach with Mr. Roosevelt. They blame the President for lowering the party prestige, raising the question of the Democratic régime's capacity to govern, and jeopardizing party success in 1940. They trace the party's discomfiture to the acts of the President that have split the party.

Never has a party enjoyed a greater degree of popular esteem than did the Democratic party at the opening of the 75th congress. It had just overwhelmingly reëlected Mr. Roosevelt. Republican fortunes were at their lowest ebb. Then Mr. Roosevelt proposed to pack the Supreme court and asked for a reorganization of the government involving the removal of checks upon executive power.

Defeated in these endeavors, he undertook to purge his party of those Democratic legislators who had thwarted his will. By so doing he only drove the wedge more deeply into his party and suffered the most devastating repudiation of a President in history.

FRANCO ORDERS FRENCH CONSUL TO LEAVE SPAIN

Paris Resents Action of Rebel Regime.

PARIS, Feb. 12.—(AP)—The Spanish insurgent régime tonight raised what diplomatic quarters called "embarrassing difficulties" as France was reported considering recognizing it as Spain's legal government.

With the cabinet believed ready to grant Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet's plea for formal recognition at a meeting Tuesday, rebel authorities suddenly ordered the French consul at Barcelona to leave.

Then, equally as suddenly, they shut their frontier across from Hendaye, France, to former Spanish government militiamen. This left French authorities with the problem of housing and feeding thousands who already had arrived from Perpignan en route to insurgent Spain.

Can Return to Catalonia.

Several hours later rebel authorities told French officials at Hendaye the former government militiamen would be allowed to cross the frontier into Catalonia beginning Tuesday. Six thousand will be admitted daily.

French officials at Hendaye, who protested the earlier action to Paris, said the rebel action was taken despite formal agreements that all former government fighters who so chose would be taken into rebel territory.

The French consul at Barcelona received a note from Generalissimo Francisco Franco's rebel government declaring it could not consider him "as consul or admit the existence of a French consulate" until France had given it diplomatic recognition.

Allowed as Commercial Agents.

Heretofore, consuls, as commercial representatives, had been allowed to continue their work despite changes in rule over Spanish cities during the almost thirty-one months of civil war.

Some members of Premier Edouard Daladier's cabinet were said to have considered these insurgent acts as hardly in keeping with what Bonnet has described as "insurgent eagerness" to make friends with France.

Bonnet, it was reported, will ask the cabinet to give Franco diplomatic recognition, nevertheless. With French foreign office quarters expecting Great Britain to follow suit on Wednesday, it was considered possible that both nations would present their recognition at Burgos, Franco's capital, as early as Thursday.

Die Hard Troops Fight On.

PERPIGNAN, France [Near the Spanish Frontier], Feb. 12.—(AP)—A die-hard government army of 35,000 men, isolated by rebel conquest of all Catalonia's frontier posts, today resisted Generalissimo Francisco Franco's domination of northeast Spain from among the snowy crags of the Pyrenees.

The government militiamen, forced into the high mountains by rebel capture of Ripoll, were said still to be holding a group of small hamlets and to be fighting with unexpected strength.

The troops were reported to have formed a small pocket in the Camprodon sector directly south of the village of Prats de Mollo, on the French-Spanish frontier, midway between Puigcerda and Portbou.

Trapped on one side by Franco's armies and on the other by snow-drifted passes over which only mountain trails cross to France, the government force was reported to be well armed and supplied with food. A few of its members left to filter over the border but most remained at their posts.

Madrid Heavily Shelled.

Observers regarded their stand as dramatic but not significant and said they were fated to defeat even though they were momentarily successful.

Madrid, to which government Premier Juan Negrin and his ministers returned today from Valencia, was shelled heavily during the morning. Sixteen inhabitants of the besieged city, again government Spain's capital, were killed and twenty-three were injured.

One hundred persons were reported killed and scores wounded in a rebel air raid on Jativa, forty miles south of Valencia.

A fleet of twelve rebel war planes dropped 120 bombs on Alicante in one of the severest raids so far on that port. Twenty persons were killed and fifty-five injured.

THE WORRIED LION

PAN-AMERICAN SEEKS PERMIT FOR AIR LINE FROM U. S. TO EUROPE

New York, Feb. 12.—(AP)—The first official step toward establishment of an American air transport service across the Atlantic ocean was taken today when Pan-American Airways asked the civil aeronautics authority in Washington to approve the carrying of passengers between the United States and Europe.

The action contemplated immediate inauguration of the service after the government agency approves selected terminals and the airworthiness of the two new four engine "Super-Clippers" built by the Boeing company of Seattle for Pan-American.

Present unofficial predictions are that the first of the Super-Clippers, with forty sleeping berths, will make the initial flight with passengers within two months from Port Washington, N. Y., to Southampton, England, with stops at Botwood, Newfoundland, and at the mouth of the River Shannon, in the Irish Free state.

MEET AT GRAVE TO PAY TRIBUTE TO NANCY HANKS

Lincoln City, Ind., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Reverent Hoosiers marked Abraham Lincoln's birthday today with a tribute to his mother, Nancy Hanks Lincoln—the frail, devout pioneer woman the President credited with setting him on the road to fame.

In a simple memorial service they laid wreaths on the lonely hilltop grave in which she lies near this southern Indiana village. Only a white stone shaft marks the place. But the state, by way of restoring the frontier landscape she knew in life, has established a 1,200 acre woodland park nearby.

In prayer, poetry, songs and speeches, the ceremony told the story of Lincoln's 14 years in Indiana.

Floyd I. McMurray, state superintendent of public instruction, eulogized Lincoln's mother as a prime influence for good in his life and recalled his tribute: "All that I am and all that I hope to be, I owe to my angel mother."

Bad Omen Dream Comes True; Her Home Burns

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Alice Segestrum, serving on a federal jury the last several days, saw her husband in the courtroom at completion of the case today and hurried to meet him. "I dreamed last Friday night that something terrible had happened—some catastrophe at home," she told him. Segestrum nodded solemnly. "That's right, Alice," he said. "Friday night the house burned—we lost everything."

Cock Fighters Stage Regular Sunday Show

BY GUY MURCHIE JR.

They had their cock fights yesterday afternoon at John Kilroe's tavern on Archer avenue where it meets 107th street. The show began about 6 o'clock in the pit down behind the old two story tavern.

It was one of the regular Sunday fights. It didn't attract the attention that an important fight gets, when as many as two or three hundred fanciers, fans, and chicken farmers collect around the lighted pit. There won't be such a meeting again until next Sunday, when a big show known as "The Derby" is scheduled to go on at 2 o'clock.

Affair Starts Quietly.

Only about forty fans and spectators were present yesterday. And there were only two fights, lasting in all about an hour. Kilroe himself was the man of the day, being the proud owner of both winning birds.

At Kilroe's a cockfight starts rather quietly. The onlookers are mostly country people, who know each other well. Only one woman was present yesterday, but sometimes several attend and bet along with the men. The pit at Kilroe's is about twelve feet square, with sides built of boards two feet high and sloping outward. The floor of the pit is of black dirt.

Six rows of bleachers surround the pit. On them, as the fights begin, sit the fans talking quietly about Red Quills, Knobcomb Blues, White Hackles, Shawlnecks, and Irish Greys.

Fighters Are Brought In.

The cocks which are to fight are kept in cages in another room, on the north side of the pit annex, toward the chicken coops, where Kilroe raises his birds. A small downstairs bar is in a room on the south side of the pitroom, on the way to the main tavern.

Suddenly two men enter the pit from opposite sides, each holding a game cock. The birds have been weighed and matched to within a few ounces. Fighting cocks usually tip the scales between 4½ and 6½ pounds. One of the men is John Kilroe, holding his rooster, all trimmed and spurred. The other man walks up to Kilroe and both hold their birds out so that their beaks touch. For a few seconds the cocks are allowed to peck at each other until they are primed for the match. A referee looks on.

Handlers Pit Their Birds.

Now the two owners back up and set their birds down four feet apart and let them go. The referee punches his stop watch. The spectators lean forward. Two inch steel gaffs gleam

HIS HONOR'S DEPUTY OFFERS CONSOLATION TO SAXOPHONE LOVER

New York, Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Herbert Cohen loves the saxophone so much that he wrote Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia complaining that he was having trouble practising because his next door Bronx neighbor threatened to call the police.

"There is something about a saxophone that makes the most ordinary people either burst into tears or cheerfully do murder," replied Deputy Mayor Henry H. Curran. "I have seen a good dog, at the first sound of that instrument, turn his nose skyward and howl bitterly. It is a dangerous instrument, especially when you blow on it for two hours and a half.

"If you would like to take up the cello, I will chip in the first $5 to buy you one."

3,000 AT HOCKY GAME FLEE WHEN ROOF COLLAPSES

Duluth, Minn., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Three thousand persons, more than half of them children, escaped this afternoon when part of the roof of the Duluth amphitheater collapsed under weight of snow on the roof. Four were injured.

The Duluth police team and the Virginia fire sextet were preparing to begin the third period of their hocky game when the crash occurred.

Although the arena was nearly filled, the crowd filed out in orderly fashion. Three boys were cut by flying glass and a woman suffered an injured ankle.

Such a Husband! Wouldn't Even Buy Her Box of Snuff

Knoxville, Tenn., Feb. 12.—(AP)—"He never as much as bought her a box of snuff," testified a father for his daughter, who was seeking a divorce, "and she loves snuff better than nearly anything." "Decree granted," said Circuit Judge Hamilton Burnett after considering other charges of nonsupport.

A.F.L. Expects Auto Union to Re-enter Fold

Miami, Fla., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Conferences between the American Federation of Labor and Homer Martin, ousted president of the strife torn United Automobile Workers of America, looking toward entrance of the Martin adherents into the federation, are expected to be under way in a few weeks.

Homer Martin.

This was learned here today from reliable sources when A. F. of L. leaders expressed confidence that Martin and a large bloc of his followers will rejoin the A. F. of L. if they are afforded an opportunity.

If Martin wins his fight to remain at the head of the U. A. W. it is not considered possible that the union will become reconciled with the C. I. O.

Statements Considered Significant.

William Green, president of the A. F. of L., said no overtures had been made to Martin. However, he made two other statements regarded as extremely significant.

First, he said he was informed that delegates from 200 out of the 300 locals in the U. A. W. would be represented at the Martin convention on March 4. Second, he admitted the executive council of the A. F. of L. had speculated on whether Martin could remain as head of an independent and unaffiliated union similar to the position of David Dubinsky and his International Ladies' Garment Workers' union.

While the council had no absolute answer to this question, Green believed that it will be more difficult for Martin to retain an independent status than Dubinsky, who withdrew his union from the C. I. O.

Warm Welcome Indicated.

From these statements the conclusion was drawn that if, at the proper time, Martin should show an inclination to return to the A. F. of L. he would be warmly welcomed.

The time for the Martin-A. F. of L. negotiations, however, is not yet considered ripe. It is believed that the March convention of Martin adherents will play an important part in the situation.

Federation leaders estimate that as many as 250,000 automobile workers would follow Martin back to the A. F. of L. This is about two-thirds of the total U. A. W. membership of 381,000, the figure given to the C. I. O. convention last fall by John L. Lewis, C. I. O. dictator. This made the U. A. W. the fourth strongest component of the C. I. O., exceeded only by the mine, steel, and textile unions. The clothing workers' union has a membership of 252,620.

200,000 BOW AT BIER IN FIRST OF 9 DAILY MASSES

Italian Troops Help Guide Throng.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Pictures on back page.)

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 12.—The body of Pope Pius XI. was exposed solemnly to the public today in the first of nine funeral masses to be held on successive days. The pontiff will be buried in the grottoes of massive St. Peter's cathedral on Tuesday night instead of Wednesday as had been expected.

Starting early this morning 200,000 worshipers of all classes of society began streaming across the bridges of the Tiber into Vatican City to pay reverence to the dead pontiff.

The throng converged on St. Peter's square. The police force of Vatican City was unable to cope with the multitude. Italian soldiers and police were summoned to help keep the Roman Catholics moving in a steady stream through the square into the immense nave of St. Peter's cathedral and up to the high altar. There every one was permitted to have a passing glance at the bier and the richly robed body of Pope Pius.

Women Faint in Crush.

Some women fainted in the crush, but the procession was orderly and none was injured.

THE TRIBUNE correspondent joined the slowly moving stream which practically became a solid mass of humanity more than a half a mile before St. Peter's square was reached. In the Piazza Rusticana, which is located in Rome itself and just outside of Vatican territory, steel helmeted Italian regulars in campaign equipment guided the slowly shuffling thousands into St. Peter's square and up to the portals of the church.

Inside the cathedral Vatican guards wearing tall bearskin hats kept the people moving forward to the bier where stood a dozen guards with black and red plumed hats and drawn swords.

Bier Protected by Grille.

After progressing inch by inch among the worshipers so packed that they were unable to kneel, pray, or cross themselves, THE TRIBUNE correspondent saw the pope's red silk lined bier It was tilted upward behind a grille erected to keep the public at a respectful distance.

The pontiff lay in state in white woolen robes over which a gold bordered cape reached to his knees. A golden mitre was on his head. The feet were enclosed in red and gold embroidered slippers. Red gloves were on the hands which were so folded that they concealed the crucifix he was holding.

On either side of the bier two guards with helmets and drawn sabers stood at attention. Behind the funeral couch and altar were two Swiss guards. They wore medieval uniforms of purple and yellow with striped knee breeches and lace collars. Lights flickered from twenty-four tall candles around the bier.

Sell Pictures of Pope.

Although this Roman crowd behaved with dignity and simplicity there were incidents which produced a curious effect on an American. For instance, hawkers darted about in the streets leading to Vatican City selling pictures of the pope for 30 centesimi [about 1½ cents] each and little paper covered biographies for 2 lire [10 cents] each. Near the Piazza Rusticana wine shops did a thriving business catering to customers weary from hours of standing in line. To THE TRIBUNE correspondent's comment on such things, a Roman friend said:

"We Romans believe mourning should be simple and natural. It is no less genuine because people amid this dust and heat become thirsty and have a glass of wine or soda water."

Venerate Body of Pope.

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 12.—(AP)—The first funeral service for Pope Pius XI. was sung today in great St. Peter's cathedral while Roman Catholics moved slowly past the body in the Chapel of the Sacrament.

The scenes within the basilica and without, in the vast square, were of stupendous crowds, brilliant colors, simple ceremony and humble reverence.

St. Peter's was opened to the public at 8 a. m. for veneration of the body of the man who today would have celebrated the 17th anniversary of his coronation.

The original plan was to close the doors at 5 p. m. But when Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, camerlengo or administrative head of the church until a new pontiff is elected, heard of the huge influx of people in the parvis, he ordered the basilica kept open two hours longer.

As the throng left the Chapel of the Holy Communion it began to thin, for many of the worshipers remained to gather around the high altar for the funeral service.

Some went to the bronze statue of St. Peter, the Apostle, the first pope, to kiss the right foot, worn smooth by the lips of millions.

Others stopped at a small chapel off the left aile where, on a side wall facing the statue of Benedict XV., Pius XI.'s predecessor, they expected eventually to see a statue of the late pontiff.

17th Anniversary of Rule.

The requiem mass began at 10 a. m. at the altar of the chair. It is named for the ancient wooden episcopal chair of St. Peter, which is inclosed in the bronze throne above the altar. The throne was designed by Bernini.

Tribunes lined this section of St. Peter's, their red velvet coverings hidden by black draperies. It was in the tribunes that privileged spectators would have sat today during the proposed mass celebrating the seventeenth anniversary of Pius XI.'s coronation.

The red papal throne erected before the altar last week for the pontiff to occupy had been removed. In the throne's place was a huge catafalque.

Its three graduated tiers of simulated marble were topped by a box. It was the size of a coffin and was hidden under a yellow cloth with wide borders of red embroidered in yellow. In the border was worked the symbol of death, a white skull over cross bones, so that it showed at the end of the catafalque.

Papal Tiara on Catafalque.

Atop the catafalque was a red and yellow cushion. On it rested a white papal tiara in the familiar beehive shape with three gold crowns encircling it and a gold cross at the top.

Seventy-two tall candles burned around the catafalque, 24 on each of the three tiers.

On either side of the altar sat the cathedral's chapter.

In the tribunes were several hundred persons, admitted from the public until all the places were filled.

As a small male choir sang the service those in the tribunes fingered rosaries and moved their lips in prayer. Others, gathered around the high altar in the center of the nave, which was draped with mourning purple, did likewise.

St. Peter's Canon Says Mass.

The requiem mass was said by Bishop Francesco Beretti, canon of St. Peter's. At times the whole congregation joined in requiem chants as the solemn notes reverberated.

While today's service was in progress 30 cardinals met in their second general congregation. The congregation decided to have the remaining eight funeral services follow today's on consecutive days in St. Peter's, including the last three which the cardinals will attend. This marked a change in the custom under which the cardinals had their services for the pope in the Sistine chapel. At the last service, Msgr. Angelo Perugino, secretary of Latin letters, will read an encomium of the pope in Latin.

SCAN PROPHECIES OF IRISH SAINT ON PIUS' SUCCESSOR

Miraculous Predictions Attributed to Malachy.

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Foreign cardinals began arriving here today to help elect the next pope while prelates studied the remarkable prophecies of the Irish St. Malachy, archbishop of Armagh, on the succession of pontiffs.

Many believe the Irish saint correctly predicted each pope since his prophecies were discovered in 1590—nearly four centuries ago—and even before the discovery. His prophecy with regard to Pope Pius XI.'s successor is contained in the Latin phrase "pastor angelicus," meaning "saintly pastor."

Ecclesiastics therefore think that the next pope will be chosen from the cardinals who are pastors—those who have episcopal sees and govern dioceses—thus eliminating the cardinals of the curia.

German Cardinal Arrives.

Cardinal Achille Lienart arrived from France today and Cardinal Michael von Faulhaber from Germany.

Others, including cardinals from the United States and the South American cardinals, were on their way. On the arrival of the princes of the church from the two Americas depends the date of the opening of the secret conclave at which the new pontiff will be elected.

Vatican prelates said that date would not be earlier than Feb. 26 and not later than March 1. By an order of March 1, 1922, of the late pope, a maximum delay of 18 full days after the death of a pontiff is allowed for the cardinals to enter the conclave. Pope Pius died Friday so the 18th day will be Feb. 28.

Prelates said they assumed the cardinals intended to let all 18 days elapse, if necessary, so that the conclave could open with the projected arrival on March 1 of Cardinal William O'Connell of Boston, Cardinal Giacomo Luigi Copello of Buenos Aires and Cardinal Sebastiano Leme of Rio de Janeiro.

[Cardinal O'Connell is en route to New York from Nassau, the Bahamas; Cardinal Copello is aboard the liner Neptunia which Cardinal Leme also is scheduled to take.]

Plan to Use Same Rules.

The committee of three in charge of the arrangements, Cardinal Camillo Caccia Dominioni, Cardinal Nicola Canali, and Cardinal Domenico Jorio, decided tentatively today to try the same rules as those that governed the election of the late pope.

The rules include the stipulation that no cardinal may vote for himself and that all cardinals present must participate in the voting. There are now sixty-two cardinals and two ballots will be taken each day in the secret conclave until one candidate receives a two-thirds majority.

The prophecies of St. Malachy with references to the popes form one of the most interesting stories in church history.

Wrote Account of Vision.

The Irish saint lived in the 12th century. In 1139 he went to Rome to give an accounting of his diocese to Pope Innocent II. While in Rome, tradition says, he had a vision of the future in which he saw the long line of popes until the end of the world. He wrote an account of his vision and presented it to the pope.

The document was placed in the Roman archives and there became forgotten until it was discovered in 1590 and published.

The prophetical side of the document is composed of 112 short mystical phrases indicating some outstanding feature of all the popes from Celestine II., who was elected in 1143, on.

Cite the Lily and the Rose.

Those who believe in the prophecies declare that the phrase for each of the popes who followed Celestine II. is miraculously apt.

They cite lilium et rosa [the lily and the rose] for Pope Urban VIII. He was a citizen of Florence, whose coat of arms embraces a fleur-de-lis. He had three bees emblazoned on his shield, and bees gather honey from lilies and roses.

Peregrinus apostolicus [pilgrim pope] was cited for Pius VI. As pope, Pius VI. made a long journey into Germany and at the end of his career was an expatriate from Rome.

The prediction for Pius IX. was a crux de croce [cross from a cross]. His career, in fact, was filled with crosses. Rioters drove him from Rome in 1848; in 1870 King Victor Emmanuel II, took Rome, and the popes became voluntary prisoners in the Vatican until the Lateran accord of 1929. And the emblem of the king's royal house of Savoy is a cross.

The phrase for Leo XIII. was lumen in coelo [light in the sky]. This aged pope, who reigned for twenty-five years, was in fact regarded as a light, his writings and teachings bringing light to all Christendom. Moreover, the coat of arms of his family bore a star in the sky.

Prophecy of Burning Fire.

The prophecy of Pius X. was ignis ardens [burning fire]. This was first explained by the burning fire of zeal with which the pope embarked on his work for the Catholic world. But the last few weeks of the pontiff's life gave an even better explanation, because it was then that the burning fire of the world war broke out.

The prophecy of Pius XI. was ignis Fides intrepida [dauntless faith], which prelates have said was a perfect characterization.

There is also tremendous interest in the last part of St. Malachy's prophecy concerning the end of the world. After Pius XI., St. Malachy listed prophetic announcements for only six more popes. The last pope was characterized with the phrase "Petrus Romanus."

Two Flyers Killed

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

David Anderson (left) and Daniel M. Ragon, who burned to death yesterday when their plane crashed south of Kenosha, Wis.

Kenosha, Wis., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Two young aviators burned to death this afternoon when a small sports airplane crashed and caught fire on the lake shore, seven miles south of here.

The two killed were Daniel M. Ragon, 22 years old, 6207 5th avenue, Kenosha, a newspaper reporter, the pilot, and David Anderson, 23, 4401 21st avenue, Kenosha. Ragon held a private license and Anderson a limited commercial license.

Ragon and Anderson were returning from a pleasure flight along the shore line. Five boys saw the plane circling low, apparently seeking landing space on the rough scrub land. It dipped down. The propellor struck the bluff. The plane bounded high, came down 200 feet farther away on the ice and burst into flames. Ragon and Anderson were found strapped in the charred fusilage.

CATHOLICS PRAY FOR SOUL OF PIUS ON LINER REX

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

ABOARD THE S. S. REX AT SEA, Feb. 12.—The seventeenth anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius XI. was marked today by Roman Catholics on the liner Rex at a service of prayer for his soul. Prayers that his successor will be strengthened to carry on his mission of upholding peace, liberty, and human brotherhood were also said.

Taking part in the services were two American cardinals traveling to Vatican City to join in the election of the new pontiff, Cardinal Dennis Dougherty of Philadelphia and Cardinal George Mundelein of Chicago. Bishop Kiley of Trenton, N. J., who is en route to Rome, and a group of American nuns of the Society of the Sacred Heart on their way to the mother house in Rome participated.

Passengers of all classes and diverse nationalities joined in the chapel services, or took part in rosary prayers privately.

CHICAGO TO JOIN IN FINAL RITES FOR POPE WEDNESDAY

Final solemn requiem services for Pope Pius XI. will be held Wednesday morning in Holy Name cathedral to coincide as nearly as possible with final rites Tuesday night over the dead pontiff in Vatican City. In addition nearly all other Catholic churches will offer solemn masses for the late pope's repose Wednesday. Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, acting head of the local archdiocese, probably will preside at Holy Name rites. He will make public the plans for the service on his return from New York where he conferred with Cardinal Mundelein before the cardinal's departure for Rome.

FLORIDA GROUPS FIGHTING STATE PRICE CONTROLS

3 Dry Cleaners in Jail on Contempt Charge.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Florida business men in three widely separated fields are battling in the courts to prevent their state government from exercising Fascistic control over prices of goods and services.

The businesses affected are barbering, dairying, and dry cleaning. Each under a law passed by the Florida legislature is governed by a state board with unusually broad powers. These powers in some instances have been invoked with great severity against recalcitrants who maintain that they may charge whatever they consider fair prices to the public.

Citrus fruit growers also are under a state price fixing board, but there has been no court action.

Rebel at Price Regulation.

Three Miami dry cleaners are serving thirty day terms in the jail at Tallahassee for contempt of the state Supreme court. It was alleged that they refused to obey the high price regulations of the state laundry and dry cleaning board even after its powers had been upheld by the court.

These men, imprisoned for eighteen days, have refused to yield. They are A. E. Lichtenstein, S. J. Heiman, and Warren Cash. Their attorneys have asked that the federal courts declare the state law creating the board unconstitutional. This plea has been entertained by Judge Rufus G. Foster of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. He has ordered that the sheriff show cause on Feb. 20 why the three men should not be released.

Fourth Cleaner Released.

A fourth dry cleaner, Jack Majors of Tampa, was held in contempt for disregarding the state board's arbitrary orders, but has been released. Judge Alexander Akerman of the federal District court at Tampa freed him after indicating that he believed the Florida law unconstitutional.

So far as the barbers are concerned, regulation seems to have been defeated. Some time ago there were attempts to enforce the barber board's rulings on prices and sanitary conditions in different parts of the state, but the owner of a small shop in Jacksonville attacked the law and the state Supreme court held its provisions invalid.

Many barbers had approved the law, and the large city shops generally are holding to the established scale of prices, while in the small towns the "charge what you please" system is in effect.

There is a different story to tell about dairying. In Miami there has been a sharp conflict over the state milk board's determination to make the dairymen charge 18 cents a quart in winter. [The normal price over most of the year is 16 cents.]

The 18 cent order was put into effect after hearings in Miami in November. Citizens' groups, hopeful they would be able to put in a plea for a reasonable price for their domestic supplies, were denied permission to testify. Their representatives declared that Mrs. J. D. Alderman of Jacksonville, board chairman and a cousin of Gov. Fred P. Cone, was "tyrannical and dictatorial."

Milk Increase Upheld.

The largest of the groups, the Dade County Parent-Teacher association, with 14,000 members, adopted resolutions opposing the increase. There was also a boycott movement and dairies were notified by many customers that they would not accept deliveries at 18 cents a quart.

This crystalization of sentiment won over some of the dairies. Several days before the order was to take effect one dairy advertised it would continue to charge 16 cents.

The milk board went to the Circuit court here and demanded enforcement of its edict. The court first indicated that it would rule in favor of the revolting dairymen, but upheld the law after it was shown in testimony that some of the dairies involved had asked the board to increase prices.

Having won this victory, however, the milk board did not press its advantage. It left the 16 cent minimum in effect and granted a rehearing, the dairymen being ordered to furnish figures on operation costs.

Increase Held Justified.

A report of the board's auditors indicated that the 18 cent price was justified. Still the board has not commanded it a second time. Expert observers believe that if the raise is demanded action will be started at once in the state courts to determine the constitutionality of the law as it relates to milk.

Undoubtedly the milk board will be an issue when the legislature meets this spring. Legislation keeping it alive must be passed again, as the original grant of power was for only two years. It is believed the legislators will extend the authority for another biennium.

In 1935 the legislature created the state citrus fruit commission. It was empowered to collect an excise tax from the growers and packers, to be used in advertising Florida citrus products on a national scale. About $900,000 is raised annually.

The commission also was empowered to set minimum prices. No effort to do so was made until this winter, when growers in this state and in Texas established minimum charges for boxes of grapefruit. Many Floridians believe it will be impossible to go much further in price regulation because of the competitive situation in the northern city markets.

HEBREW UNION PAYS TRIBUTE TO POPE'S WORK

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 12.—(AP)—The Union of American Hebrew Congregations, through its president, Robert P. Goldman, offered its sympathy today to members of the Catholic faith on the death of Pope Pius XI. "Pope Pius XI. was a lover of peace and humanity and upheld the ideals of spirituality with courage and wisdom," said the statement. "He has clarified the thinking of the world by his firm declaration that the law of God must mold the standards of society. His life was an inspiration and his passing is a loss to the people of all religious faiths."

from the birds' natural spurs. These are fastened on with tape. The fighters' wattles, combs, and ear lobes have been trimmed and daubed with grease. Even their hackles and sickles have been trimmed, and the birds appear pink around the legs from their pre-fight shaves. [This is said to be the origin of the expression "in the pink."]

The fighters suddenly strike. In a lightninglike flutter of flying feathers they rise three feet off the ground, each trying to pass over the other's head and strike backwards at him with the deadly spurs. The cocks whirl and jocky for position, strike again, and rise off the ground in their life and death struggle.

Betting Waxes with Fight.

The spectators gaze in silent attention. Occasionally a further bet is made. "Hey, I'll give you seven to ten on the one with the blue feathers, John," says one farmer in a lether coat.

"O. K. I'll take you on that," is the answer.

The fight goes on. Most of the time the cocks are merely walking about, eying each other. Presently, as the birds fall out of a clinch, one is limping. Blood drips on the black dirt. Probably a leg is injured. Another few minutes and the lame bird is down.

"Count!" says the owner of the unconscious bird.

The referee counts ten. The bird twitches feebly. Now the two men pick up their birds and go to their corners, where the owner of the injured bird wipes its head with witch hazel and water and soon has it on its feet.

Death Ends Fight.

The fight continues—sidling about—flying together in a furious flutter—again and again. After a half hour one bird is dead. The fans lean forward to watch the other rooster. According to the rules, if he pecks at the dead bird, he is the winner. In this case, the cock lived up to his training and pecked at the prostrate form. Kilroe had won.

After the second fight, which another of Kilroe's cocks won in a few minutes, the day's spectacle was over. The farmers fumbled in their baggy trousers for bills and the bets were paid. Five, ten, and twenty dollars were the amounts.

"I've got a six pound bird over to my farm that I'll fight against that big brown one of yours," one man was heard to say as they left the pit room for the bar.

"All right. I'll see you at the Derby. Twenty-five dollars."

"It's a bet."

The Illinois Law.

The Illinois criminal code reads: "Whoever shall keep or use, or in any way be connected with or interested in the management of, or shall receive money for the admission of any person to any place kept or used for the purpose of fighting or baiting any bull, bear, dog, cock, or other creature, and every person who shall engage, encourage, aid, or assist therein, or who shall permit or suffer any place to be so kept or used, and every person who shall visit such place so kept or used, or who shall be found therein, shall be fined not less than $3 nor more than $200."

Two Rob a Hotel Manager, Two Nurses, Two Doctors

Two robbers had a busy ten minutes early yesterday in the Royalton hotel at 1810 Jackson boulevard. They began by robbing the manager, Roy Faulkner, of $38. Two couples walked into the lobby. They were lined up and robbed of $8. The victims are Miss Helen Bahnso and Helen Ivkovich, nurses who live in the hotel; Dr. Wilbert S. Menley of the Chicago Lying-In hospital, and Dr. Edward Trook, intern at the County hospital.

BOOKLET ISSUED GIVING FACTS ON PUBLIC SCHOOLS

One hundred thousand copies of a booklet intended, its sponsors said, to correct misstatements about the board of education and Chicago public schools, are now being distributed.

Published by Irwin N. Walker, vice president of the board, the booklet made its appearance yesterday. It is entitled "Facts About Chicago Public Schools" and is a 24 page reprint of a statement about board operations Walker made at a public hearing on the 1939 school budget.

The booklet says that since 1934 the elementary school teaching load has been reduced from 46 pupils per teacher to 36.85, and the high school load has been reduced from 31 in 1936 to 29.6 in 1939.

The booklet also asserts that the board is proud of its record on the ratio between salaries paid to teachers and the total education fund. In 1931 70.1 cents out of every dollar expended from the education fund went to teachers. In 1938 teachers were paid 73.4 cents out of each dollar, it says.

A BULLET MISSES LOUIS ONCE, THEN TRIES IT AGAIN

Louis Konopka thinks he's lucky. Judge for yourself. Early yesterday Konopka was reading in a chair in his fifth floor room at the Diana hotel, 666 North State street. His wife, Helen, was in bed.

A bullet crashed through the front window. It missed Konopka by inches, struck a wall, ricocheted against a door, passed within a foot of his chest, and struck another wall. Konopka dropped to the floor. His wife screamed.

Police searched the rooms across the street but could not find the mysterious gunman.

U. S. WEATHER FLYER LOST ON OBSERVATION HOP ABOVE SPOKANE

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Roy Shreck, 36 years old, United States weather bureau flyer, disappeared early today on an observation flight and a day long search by air and land failed to reveal any trace of him. Darkness tonight halted a hunt by fifteen National Guard planes, four private craft, and ground parties over a radius of 100 miles from Felts field, 15,000 feet above which Shreck last reported at 1:20 a. m.

DOCTORS WARNED MEDICINE FACES DICTATOR THREAT

President Roosevelt's health security program was described yesterday by Dr. Henry A. Luce of Detroit as a project to force organized medicine into the control of a dictatorship. Dr. Luce is president of the Michigan State Medical society. His remarks were made before the northwest regional conference of physicians in the Palmer House.

He said that while the government apparently was to furnish technical and financial support and leave the direction of the program to the states, the President had said federal grants would be given only if the state plans were satisfactory to the government. This, he averred, meant that the government would get exactly what it wants.

The national health program is to be discussed today by the Chicago Dental society at its midwinter meeting in the Stevens hotel. Dr. Clarence A. Dykstra of the University of Wisconsin will address the dentists tonight on "The Newer Governmental Undertakings."

Golf Club Employe Found Shot to Death; Order Quiz

William Puddy, 54 years old, greens keeper at the Mission Hills Country club, Sanders and Techny roads, near Northbrook, was found shot to death yesterday in the pump house on the club grounds. He had been shot behind the left ear although he was right handed. The gun with which Puddy was slain was found under his body. Although police said the slaying appeared to be suicide they were investigating the possibility of murder.

GLENCOE TOWN CRIER ON ANNUAL ROUNDS TONIGHT

Residents of Glencoe will hold their annual town meeting in the Central school at 8 o'clock tonight to hear reports from village officers and to nominate candidates for office.

The meeting is held every year in an effort to get townspeople to take a more active interest in local government. To insure good attendance, a town crier will intone "Hear ye, hear ye, town meeting tonight!" in the Glencoe railroad station this morning and again this evening.

Harry C. Holloway will be chairman. Mrs. Bernice T. Van der Vries, 7th senatorial district representative, will be guest speaker.

LAW TO PROTECT FLINT WORKERS TO BE DEFENDED

City Attorneys Prepare for C. I. O. Attack.

Flint, Mich., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Preparations for court litigation are being made by Flint city officials who, on Feb. 17, will begin enforcement of a novel ordinance designed to reach into local automobile factories to protect workers from intimidation in connection with union membership or dues-collecting drives.

The ordinance passed last week by the city commission makes it a misdemeanor, punishable by fine up to $100 or imprisonment up to ninety days or both, to molest, disturb, threaten, solicit, or otherwise intimidate men at work or going to and from work.

Court tests of the ordinance are expected with the first attempt at enforcement.

Ready for Court Fight.

Officials of the United Automobile Workers have said they will fight the measure as unconstitutional and unfair to labor. Attorneys in the city legal department, anticipating such action, say that they have the advantage of a separation clause in the ordinance. This provides that if one section is found unconstitutional other sections will not be affected.

Suffering from a decline in dues-paying members last year, the Flint local of the U. A. W. began early in January what union officials called an educational campaign in the Chevrolet plants here and expanded it to include Buick and A C spark plug shops.

The educational campaign, also described as a dues-picketing campaign, a membership drive, and a pressure campaign, consisted, in part, of having long rows of men formed at the factory gates at times when shifts entered and left. These human aisles, through which workmen had to pass, twisted and turned so that it was difficult for a man to go through without jostling some one or being jostled. Many arguments resulted and several arrests were made.

Nonmembers Threatened.

Police also began to receive complaints of nonunion workers being threatened and menaced, and several were waylaid and beaten. Two union officials were treated for injuries received from night attackers. Inside the plants the situation was said to have been worse, with the city police feeling that they had no jurisdiction on private property.

General Motors corporation broke off negotiations with the union, declaring the conferences would not continue until dues picketing was stopped.

When the ordinance came up for passage last week the city commission chambers were packed for two hours ahead of the meeting time by 500 C. I. O. representatives. Demonstrations and speeches failed, however, to prevent its adoption by a 5 to 3 vote.

Keeps Child Bride

MR. and MRS. JAMES KENT.

Uniontown, Pa., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—James Kent, 22 years old, a WPA worker, had a heart to heart talk yesterday with the district attorney and came away from the conference satisfied that he would be permitted to keep his bride, who is 13 years old. "I can't live without her," the young husband said. The bride's mother, Mrs. Inez Rose Grant, approves the marriage.

RIOT BREAKS UP C. I. O. MEETING IN DETROIT; 2 HURT

Police Wield Night Sticks to Stop Fight.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Two workmen were injured slightly this afternoon when a riot broke up a meeting of the Packard local of the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers of America. Police stopped the riot with night sticks and arrested one man after he struck another on the head with a piece of pipe. Last night a similar riot broke up a U. A. W. local meeting in Flint.

The meeting today was called to let Packard local members decide whether to support Homer Martin, elected president of the U. A. W., or side with his John L. Lewis and communist dominated foes who have declared Martin suspended.

Union Officer Shouted Down.

Foes of Martin shouted down James McGough, vice president of the Packard local, when he attempted to conduct the meeting, which was in the Cass Technical High school. Then the fighting started.

Arthur Daniels, 46 years old, sergeant at arms of the Packard local, was cut on one hand when he and seven other late arrivals sought to force their way into the auditorium. Walter Raddatz, 30, a union member, was cut on the head.

The man arrested was Ernest Dumas, 36, a member of the Plymouth local. The local's officers were suspended last month by Martin, who said they were dominated by communists seeking to wreck the U. A. W.

In the Flint riot last night police broke up a series of battles among auto workers which started when Burt Harris, an organizer and supporter of Martin, led 1,500 members from a meeting of 4,500 called by the C. I. O. faction opposed to Martin.

Sherman Bean, Flint assistant prosecutor, said he would ask for a warant tomorrow charging Richard T. Frankensteen, one of the vice presidents recently suspended by Martin, with assault with a gun. William Kupres, 20 years old, complained to Bean last night that Frankensteen had threatened him with a gun when the fighting started.

Today Frankensteen said he was merely attempting to defend his wife and sister-in-law when the Martin faction attempted to break up the Flint meeting. He said the women were in danger of being mobbed.

WORKMAN PAID FOR 1887 JOB ON LINCOLN'S COFFIN

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Leon P. Hopkins, 87 years old, had a $22.76 check today in payment for some soldering and cutting work on Abraham Lincoln's coffin 51 years ago.

On April 14, 1887, Hopkins opened a small section of Lincoln's casket so the body could be identified to end rumors that it had been stolen. He was promised $3 for the work but never turned in a bill. Yesterday Attorney Francis Garvey of Chicago gave Hopkins a check to cover the original bill, with interest.

Payment was made on behalf of Maj. Felix J. Streyckmans, last survivor of a committee which viewed Lincoln's face in 1901 when the body was placed in Oak Ridge cemetery.

AUTO WORKERS FROM 3 STATES INDORSE MARTIN

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Homer Martin, suspended president of the United Automobile Workers of America, said tonight the tri-state council of the union composed of delegates from Illinois, Wisconsin, and Minneapolis locals had indorsed the convention which he had called for March 4 in Detroit.

The announcement followed a lengthy meeting at which the council's executive committee presented an indorsement of the anti-Martin convention called for March 27 in Cleveland. When the committee's indorsement was offered supporters of Martin launched a fight against it.

"This is a signal victory," Martin said. "There was a clear majority in support of the Detroit convention. This region is one of the largest and most important in the country, consisting of seventy-five locals and having more than 40,000 members."

BUDGELESS BEN UPHOLDS RIGHT OF A TAXPAYER

But Trucker Shoots Holes in His Own Argument.

An irresistible force met a temporarily immovable object at Division and Clybourn streets yesterday afternoon. There was all sorts of excitement for nearly half an hour. The force was a street car piloted by Motorman Walter Kuta. The immovable object was Ben Lamar's truck.

Ben is a Negro. He operates a coal delivery and moving service. He had parked his car across the eastbound Division street tracks while he went about his business of loading various articles on the truck from a nearby second-hand store.

Ben Refuses to Budge.

Soon Motorman Kuta's street car came along. Kuta clanged the bell lustily. Ben ignored him. Even when Kuta alighted from the car to plead with him Ben shook his head.

"Ah got to finish," Ben insisted, "Ah got wuk to do." By this time a minor trafic jam had developed. Motorists were honking horns. Other street cars were lining up. Passengers were crowding about to remonstrate with Ben. Ben remained adamant.

Kuta then called for the surface lines wrecking crew. This proved fruitless. In fact it riled Ben. He drew a revolver and fired six shots into the air to show his indifference.

Policemen Get Action.

A passenger finally called Sergt. James Leary of the police radio division at the detective bureau. He promptly dispatched two detective squads, which were joined by another near the scene of the turmoil. By the time they arrived, however, Ben had run away.

Under the policemen's watchful eyes the wrecking crew finally shoved Ben's truck from the tracks. Kuta clanged his bell, the other motormen responded, and trafic moved once more on Division street.

Sergts. Pat Griffin and Ben Buchowski found Ben hiding in the bedroom of his home at 1164 Hudson avenue. "Ah had a right to stay there," Ben still insisted, "Ah'm a taxpayer, ain't ah?" The policeman said "Yes" and locked Ben up in a cell at the detective bureau.

Demure in Chicago

Madeleine Carroll, working on needlepoint at Blackstone hotel.

Madeleine Carroll, movie star, was demure yesterday as she spent a few hours at the Blackstone hotel between trains. She bordered, in fact, on the domestic: She devoted her time and energy to working on a mammoth piece of needlepoint. Miss Carroll, pretty and blonde, was on her way back to Hollywood, after spending New Year's day in Paris with her family. She will soon begin work on a new picture, "Are Husbands Necessary?"

Second Quadruplet Dies; Others in Good Condition

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Only two girls survived today of quadruplets born yesterday to Mrs. Ralph Pennetti, 29 years old, wife of an unemployed truck driver. The first born of the four babies, a boy, died at birth. The second boy died last night after physicians had placed him in an oxygen tent. The two survivors cried lustily in their incubators today. Hospital attendants said they were in good condition.

CHICAGO JOINS IN NATION-WIDE LINCOLN TRIBUTE

Schools Closed Today in Emancipator's Honor.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Chicago and the nation yesterday observed the birth 130 years ago in a Kentucky log cabin of Abraham Lincoln.

From pulpit and rostrum, over the radio and in city parks, speakers recited again the old, old story of Lincoln, the carpenter's son; Lincoln, the rail splitter; Lincoln, the lawyer; Lincoln, the emancipator, and of what he did for his nation.

Other ceremonies will be held today as the city enjoys a legal holiday. Public offices, public and parochial schools, and banks will be closed.

Tribute in Park.

Chicago's largest observance yesterday was in Lincoln park, where 2,000 persons gathered in the shadow of the famous St. Gaudens' statue of the standing Lincoln. Here, as in almost every other ceremony, the tribute ended with the rereading of Lincoln's Gettysburg address, in which he said: "The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here."

This ceremony was preceded by a parade of seventeen Boy Scout troops led by a Chicago boy's club drum and bugle corps. Throughout the program, youth predominated. Waller High school students sang; John Ahlin, a high school boy, read the Gettysburg address; Boy Scouts placed a wreath at the feet of Lincoln's statue. Only a salute by the firing squad of Lincoln park post of the American Legion, and taps, sounded by Harold A. Taylor post, No. 47, were given by adults.

Earlier in the day Veterans of Foreign Wars and Spanish-American war veterans paraded on the north side.

Play for School Children.

The Chicago Historical society, which houses one of the three finest Lincoln displays in the country, will hold its annual open house today with a one act play, "Why Lincoln Grew a Beard," as a feature of the day.

The play, to which all Chicago school children have been invited, will be performed at 11 a. m., 2 p. m., 3 p. m., and 4 p. m. in the auditorium of the society's museum in Lincoln park. The Lincoln collection, through which visitors will be escorted, includes the penholder with which President Lincoln signed the emancipation proclamation, books and furnishings from his law office in Springfield, and the clothes he wore the night of his assassination.

United States District Judge Michael L. Igoe will speak on "If Lincoln Lived Today" at the annual B'nai B'rith conference tonight at Crawford-Roosevelt hall. Chicago Lawndale lodge is sponsoring the meeting.

'INDIGNATION' SAVES LINCOLN FROM WILES OF WOMAN PETITIONER

Providence, R. I., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Librarians at Brown university, examining a collection of Abraham Lincoln material gleaned from newspaper clippings, smiled at an account of Lincoln's predicament when a woman urged him to give her husband a fat government job.

She "pleaded her cause dexterously and eloquently," the President was quoted in the Belleville [Ill.] Advocate of June 8, 1866, "and by degrees she came closer to me as I sat in my chair, until finally her face was so near my own that I thought she wanted to kiss me!

"Then my indignation came to my relief, and drawing myself back and straightening myself up I gave her the proper sort of a look and said: 'Mrs. ——, you are very pretty, and it's very tempting, but I won't.'"

HONOR MEMORY OF LINCOLN ON 130TH BIRTHDAY

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Stephen F. Chadwick, national commander of the American Legion, stood in Abraham Lincoln's tomb today and voiced the hope that all nations some day accept his divine ideals for government.

Before the service at the tomb, in Oak Ridge cemetery, veterans' organizations and their auxiliaries, National Guard units, state police and civic organizations marched from downtown Springfield two miles to the cemetery.

Participating in the program from New York by means of a radio hookup was Raymond Massey, who currently portrays the lanky character in the play, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois." Massey read Lincoln's "Farewell to Springfield."

Other speakers on the program included Mrs. T. K. Rinaker of Carlinville, Ill., national vice president of the American Legion auxiliary, and John Stelle, acting governor.

FASCIST LEADER DOES AN ABOUT FACE ON SPAIN

Insists Italy Will Not Dominate Victory.

ROME, Feb. 12. — (AP) — Virginio Gayda, Fascism's chief newspaper spokesman, today modified his assertions of a week ago and said Italy had no intention of imposing her own idea of an insurgent victory in Spain.

Gayda disturbed French and British last Sunday by indicating that Italian troops would remain in Spain until Generalissimo Francisco Franco's forces had won a "political" as well as military victory.

Demanded Purge in Spain.

He insisted then that Spain would have to be "purged completely of Red [government] armies and associated corrosive attempts of their friends" before the Italians would come home.

His statement evoked inquiries from the earl of Perth, Great Britain's ambassador to Italy. He was assured by Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, that Gayda's assertion did not represent the Fascist government's policy.

[Premier Mussolini has promised to withdraw Italian forces from insurgent Spain after the civil war ends if not earlier.]

Bares Policy After War.

Of Italy's policy after the Spanish civil war, however, Gayda said today in La Voce d'Italia:

"Italy intends only to assist Franco wherever it may be necessary in defending his political victory, already threatened from abroad, and it does not, in fact, intend to impose a victory of its own or, rather, it does not intend that a new political régime in Spain should conform with this or that obligatory tendency toward Fascism or philo-Fascism [favorably disposed toward Fascism]; it desires that it correspond to the Spanish national will, safeguarded from corrupting foreign influence."

Gayda complained that Britain and France, by accepting Franco's military victory as a fact, were "attempting to undermine its political results." He expressed doubt that such aims would succeed.

Jap House to O. K. Billion Dollar Budget Instalment

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Feb. 13 [Monday].—With unanimity assured by prearrangement, the lower house of parliament today will approve a new budget totaling 3 billion 694 million yen [about 1 billion 9 million dollars]. Although this is the largest budget in Japan's history, it is but the first instalment on the expenditure Japan is preparing to meet in the current financial year.

1 DIES, ANOTHER'S LEGS FROZEN IN CANYON BLIZZARD

(Picture on back page.)

Grand Canyon, Ariz., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Paul Des Jardins, 18 years old, of Detroit, may lose his feet by amputation as a result of freezing in the Grand canyon last week. Caught in the worst blizzard that the canyon has had in years, Des Jardins' companion, Cisimir Poltark, 22, also of Detroit, lost his life. Wilbur Stuart, geological checker in the canyon, and his wife found Poltark, his legs protruding from a snowdrift. He died shortly after he was found. Later they found Des Jardins in the shelter of a small cave, seriously frozen. Des Jardins was unaware that the cave contained one of the telephones located along the trail and by which he and his companion might have gotten aid.

REDS, FASCISTS AND ROYALISTS BATTLE IN PARIS

PARIS, Feb. 12.—(AP)—A dozen persons were injured today and more than fifty arrested when political demonstrators battled in the streets of Paris.

In one conflict members of the royalist Action Francaise fought followers of Col. Francois de la Rocque's rightist French social party outside Madeleine church.

Leftists parading in the Place de la Republique clashed with police.

FRENCH PROTEST JAP SEIZURE OF HAINAN ISLAND

Britain Also Expected to Ask Explanation.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Feb. 13 (Monday).—(AP)—Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita assured French Ambassador Charles Arsene Henry today that Japan had occupied the Chinese island of Hainan only for military reasons and that it would last only as long as military necessity demanded.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 13. — [Monday.] — Charles-Arsene Henry, French ambassador to Tokio, called on Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita at 11 o'clock this morning. He was understood to have protested against the Japanese occupation of Hainan Island last week. Great Britain also is expected to protest to Japan.

Tokio attaches little importance to these moves, Japanese sources said. Arita was reported to have told Ambassador Henry that occupation of Hainan, which is off the southern coast of China and near the French colony of Indo-China, does not violate the Japanese-French agreement of 1937, and was for purely military purposes.

Chiang Warns U. S. of Danger.

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 12.—[Delayed.]—(AP)—Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese commander in chief, warned last night that Japanese domination of Hainan Island "would mean the beginning of Japanese domination of the Pacific."

The Chinese leader asserted in an interview it would strike heavily against the United States, Great Britain, and France.

Japanese possession of Hainan will mark the beginning of broken British communications linking Hongkong, Singapore, and Australia, Chiang predicted. He said it would be a "threat to American and British naval bases in Hawaii and Singapore," and said he believed the occupation, therefore, was Japan's "reply to the visit of American warships to Singapore last year."

Three cruisers, the Memphis, Trenton, and Milwaukee, went there last Feb. 13 for the formal opening of a new British naval base.

Chiang said he believed Japan wanted to create a strategic triangle with its points at Hainan, Sakhalin island, and Guam, and warned that if it were established it would mean that "Hawaii and the Philippines were as good as occupied by the Japanese."

WALLACE HITS GERMAN SUPERIOR RACE IDEA AS SCIENTIFIC FAKING

New York, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today said that Germany's theory of racial superiority was "pure scientific faking" and that no European nation had a greater mixture of tribes and breeds than the Germans.

"It is quite possible a master breeder who had a dictator's control for several generations would find he had produced a group of blonde morons—useful to him mainly as a superior type of cannon fodder," he said.

Wallace told a Lincoln's day meeting sponsored by scientists that Germany was "masquerading its propaganda in pseudo-scientific terms" and teaching its youth to believe their race and nation are superior and, by implication, that that nation and race have a right to dominate all others.

HULL WARNS U. S. WILL RESIST ANY BLOW AT RIGHTS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Secretary Hull warned the world tonight that the American people would reply with "determined defense and resistance" to any challenge to their "most vital and cherished interests."

Speaking on a national radio hookup in a broadcast arranged by the New York World's Fair, the secretary of state said: "So long as such a possibility [of challenge or attack] exists, it is the sacred duty of a government worthy of the name to maintain adequate defensive forces."

"In times like the present," he continued, "when the specter of a new major armed conflict haunts the world, the issue of war and peace becomes an intensely personal one."

JAPS DESTROY 38 WARPLANES IN WESTERN CHINA

SHANGHAI, Feb. 12.—(AP)—A Domei [Japanese news service] dispatch from an unnamed Japanese air base in the interior said an air raid at Lanchow, in far Western China, resulted in the destruction of thirty-eight Chinese airplanes today.

Eighteen Chinese airplanes were shot down, Domei reported, and twenty other planes were destroyed on the airfield. The Japanese said one of China's largest air bases was located in Lanchow, Kansu province, an obscure Asiatic outpost behind mountains towering 10,000 feet.

The base is on the caravan route connecting Sianfu, Chinese communist base, with Russia.

GROOM KILLED, BRIDE HURT BY HIT-RUN DRIVER

Fleeing Motorist Caught by Another Victim.

Robert C. Cook, 34 years old, was killed and his bride of three months was injured critically yesterday when they were struck by an automobile as they were crossing a south side street. The motorist smashed into another car in attempting to escape, but was caught after a short chase.

The accident occurred as Cook and his wife, Joan, started to cross Cottage Grove avenue at 54th street. William Pratt, an attendant in the Capitol garage at 5345 Cottage Grove avenue had just parked a car in front of the garage nearby.

Sees Car Hurl Object Into Air.

Pratt said he heard another auto approaching at high speed. At the corner Pratt said it hit a dark object and hurled it into the air. As the speeding automobile veered toward the machine he was parking, Pratt leaped out and took refuge in the garage doorway.

The car struck his machine, skidded, and continued south. Jumping into another car, Pratt started in pursuit. At Drexel avenue and 57th street Pratt forced the other motorist to stop.

Surrenders Captive to Police.

Half a block away Pratt saw a police squad, stopped them and surrendered his prisoner. The man identified himself as John R. Sickel, 29, 500 East Oakwood boulevard, a truck dispatcher. Sickel refused to make a statement. Mrs. Cook, who lives at 5445 Drexel avenue, was taken to the County hospital.

Leon Duton, 71 years old, 147 West Huron street, died early today in Henrotin hospital from injuries he suffered on Feb. 8 when he was struck by a Yellow cab at La Salle and Ontario streets. Harry Schmid, 25, of 19 North Albany avenue, was the driver.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 111 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 90 were killed in Chicago where 2,173 persons were injured in the same period.

20 KILLED IN HINDU-MOSLEM RIOTS IN INDIA

CAWNPORE, India, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Twenty persons were killed and 200 injured today in rioting among Moslems and Hindus here. Police fired among the rioters six times and arrested 500. After the disorder was finally quelled, troops patroled the streets. Clashes last night and early today culminated several days of tension over Moslem protests against Hindus playing music in front of a mosque.

REPUBLICANS GO TO BAT ON SLASH IN STATE OUTLAY

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

The Republican corps in the state legislature expects to fight a decisive battle with Democrats tomorrow over a propsed investigation of the state government. The G. O. P. forces plan to make this investigation a spearhead for their march toward economy.

A call has been sent to the seventy-nine Republican members of the house by Speaker Hugh W. Cross of Jerseyville. In telegrams urging their presence, Cross warned that the occasion will be a test of their Republicanism.

Reports yesterday were that four G. O. P. members are ill and cannot attend. This will reduce the Republican majority to a single vote—75 to 74—if all Democrats appear. The four indisposed members are Representatives Edward P. Saltiel, Chicago; Fred A. Reavill, Flat Rock; James J. Adducci, Chicago, and M. F. Browner, Mound City.

Last week, when the resolution calling for the investigation was introduced by Floor Leader R. J. Branson of Centralia, a vote on a preliminary motion disclosed the ranks of both parties are holding solid. The inquiry, to be carried on by seven members appointed by Speaker Cross, is to cover pay roll and other expenditures for the last four years.

Pointing out that the cost of state government has reached an all-time high, the resolution recalls that Democrats themselves have charged in the last several primary campaigns that state officials have padded pay rolls for political purposes.

Another economy move by G. O. P. house members tomorrow may be to refer the $2,113,580 appropriation bill of the state auditor's office back to committee. With thirteen Republican members of the appropriations committee absent at the time, the bill was reported out with a recommendation that it pass. This action may be undone in order to cut the amount.

A public hearing is scheduled in the house tomorrow on a bill to place a 2 per cent tax on products manufactured and sold in Illinois. The bill seeks to repeal the 3 per cent sales tax, replacing the $80,000,000 a year revenue from this source with a lesser amount realized by the new tax.

Representative Lottie Holman O'Neill [R., Downers Grove], who introduced the measure, said numerous merchants from her district will appear to support it.

MOVIE CASHIER LOOKS INTO GUN AND OBEYS; BANDIT RUNS WITH $30

Miss Evelyn Johnson smiled up at the tall man who stood in front of the cashier's booth at the Esquire theater, 58 East Oak street, yesterday afternoon. "How many, please?" she asked.

Instead of replying the man drew a revolver. Then he said, "Give me all the paper dough. Make it snappy and don't holler." Miss Johnson shoved $30 through the window. The man grabbed the money and ran into a passageway. Miss Johnson is 23 years old and lives at 1117 North Dearborn street.

ENGINE DEFECTS HOLD UP WORK ON 18 U. S. SHIPS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Completion of eighteen of the navy's newest destroyers has been delayed by engineering defects, it was learned today. Defects in the turbine casings were found after the first destroyer, the recently commissioned Benham, ran her trials some months ago.

These defects affected the turbine design of seventeen other destroyers on the navy's construction program. The turbine and engineering installations were made by a sub-contractor, whose contract holds him responsible. Little or no extra expense to the government is involved, other than that incidental to delay.

Some officers believe the turbine failures resulted partly because the designers had too little experience with such high pressure, high temperature steam systems.

Waves Batter Grounded Tanker; Crew Taken Off

(Picture on back page.)

New York, Feb. 12.—The Texas company oil tanker Lightburne was resting on a rocky ledge of Block Island tonight with her seams gradually opening and most of her gasoline and kerosene cargo already lost in the sea. Capt. Alexander Wolman, master of the tanker, and his crew of thirty-six officers and men were safely ashore in New London, Conn., where coast guard vessels took them after they were rescued early Saturday from the ship piled up on the rock. It is not yet known whether the tanker will be a total loss.

HITLER'S AGENTS GO TO RUMANIA TO DICKER FOR OIL

Expected to Offer Aid in Sinking New Wells.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 12.—Dr. Helmuth Wohlthat, who is Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's right hand man, left today for Bucharest to hold discussions with Rumanian authorities.

The talks, it was understood, will relate to the question of Rumanian oil supplies. Four experts accompanied Dr. Wohlthat, and the fact that one of these is a geologist was believed to confirm the report that Germany is prepared to give aid for new oil borings.

Eye Carpatho-Ukraine.

Rumania's relations with the autonomous Czecho-Slovak state of Carpatho-Ukraine [Ruthenia] were described today as "a smooth understanding" by the Essener National-Zeitung. This is the newspaper of Field Marshal Goering, who is chief of Germany's four year plan for economic self-sufficiency.

Germany watched closely the developments in Carpatho-Ukraine, and news from Chust, the capital, of a German-Ukrainian society to "coöperate in obtaining an understanding between the two peoples" was hailed with satisfaction.

Nazis Watch Elections.

Today's elections to the Carpatho-Ukrainian parliament also were followed closely.

[Premier Augustin Volosin's government party in Carpatho-Ukraine won an overwhelming parliamentary majority in yesterday's elections. It was the only party allowed to run. In Chust 29,659 voted for the official list and 4,281 against it, and the government garnered 98.5 to 100 per cent majorities in other districts. Hungarians refused to vote because their candidates were barred.]

As an illustration of the good relations between the Ukrainians and the Germans it was pointed out that Germans living in Carpatho-Ukraine are to have representation in the new parliament, although it is acknowledged they have no formal claim to it.

Louis Hunter, Pianist, Dies in Homewood I. C. Station

Louis Hunter, 70 years old, a piano teacher, died suddenly of a heart attack last night while waiting for a train at the Illinois Central railroad station in Homewood. He lived at 7449 Coles avenue. Mr. Hunter had been visiting his daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Perkins, 1702 Olive road, Homewood. He also is survived by a son, Louis Jr.

Look Alike

Harry Meiners (left) and Herbert Feingarten, who look enough alike to be twins, but are not related.

Herbert Feingarten and Harry Meiners were strangers five years ago. Both went to Austin high school, where each was mistaken constantly for the other.

Today the boys, who look enough alike to be twins, are firm friends. Yet, after five years of denial, other friends still greet Herbert as "Harry" and Harry as "Herbert."

Harry is 20 years old and lives at 5555 West Van Buren street. Herbert will be 20 in April and lives at 711 Wellington place. Each is 6 feet 3 inches tall. Each weighs around 185 pounds. Both are dark, bespectacled, with square chins and tilted noses.

"If I go to a dance," Herbert lamented, "the girls mistake me for him."

"He plays in an orchestra," Harry added, "plays the saxophone and clarinet and violin, and every one thinks I'm kidding when I say I can't play, for they say they have seen me playing."

ROB BENEFACTOR OF $81 AFTER HE PAYS LUNCH BILL

Three young South Chicagoans were seized by police early today as alleged strong arm thieves who robbed an elderly man who had befriended them. The victim was Sherman W. Jackson, 65 years old, 3024 East 92d street, a railroad switchman.

Those held are Robert Simpson, 20, of 3012 East 89th street, said to have served 19 months in St. Charles State school; Arthur Martin, also 20, of 9129 Commercial avenue, and John McLain, 19, of 9009 Brandon avenue. Jackson told South Chicago police he paid their checks in a lunchroom early Sunday, and that they followed him outside and robbed him of $81.

According to Sergt. Martin Keenan, the three admitted holding Jackson up, but insisted they stole only $51. They also admitted, the sergeant said, that they were friends of Michael Adams, 22, of 9932 Commercial avenue, who was fatally shot under mysterious circumstances last Thursday night.

PURSE SNATCHED; LOSS IS $212.

Mrs. Ella Kaddatz reported to Maxwell street police yesterday that a colored youth snatched her purse containing $12 and three rings valued at $200 as she was walking in the 900 block in Roosevelt road. She lives at 6444 Northwest highway.

REFUGEE BOARD TAKES UP HITLER PLANS FOR JEWS

Fuehrer Will Ease Drive to Win Emigration Aid.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—(AP)—George Rublee, American director of the international refugee committee, told officials of the body tonight that Reichsfuehrer Hitler had promised to lower the bars against Jews in German trade and industry, provided the committee accepted his plan for removing them from Germany.

Rublee, who left Berlin on Feb. 2 after long negotiations, explained the results of his trip at a dinner given by Myron Taylor, American member of the refugee committee. It was reported reliably that Rublee told the committee Hitler had agreed also to a "political truce" with the Jews pending the committee's decision on the proposed emigration plan.

Hitler Decides Property Allowance.

The Fuehrer, it was said, made a specific statement about the percentage of capital and property he would permit Jews to take with them from Germany. Although a committee spokesman would not disclose the figure, it was believed to be about 15 per cent.

Nazi officials were understood to have agreed to a suggestion by Rublee that a central Jewish emigration office be established. If the committee accepts the new plan, it was understood, it will be placed under the authority of the central office and instructions will be issued to local officers and police in Germany not to take action against Jews without the office's authorization.

The committee will meet tomorrow morning in London to consider the scheme, with its specific offers from the Nazi government.

Expect Acceptance.

It was believed generally that the plan would be accepted, at least as a basis for negotiation. Another attempt may be made, it was said, to get the Nazi government to raise the percentage of capital and goods which Jews may take away with them.

[Before Rublee left Germany after his conferences there, he predicted that his conversations would "lead to a very great improvement in the situation." It was insisted on the German side, however, that a secret document giving German reactions to proposals for mass Jewish emigration, supposedly the fruits of Rublee's talks, was entirely his work.]

Schacht Plan Scrapped.

Hitler was said to have scrapped a plan originated by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht before the latter's dismissal as the president of the Reichsbank. That plan would have demanded that foreign governments buy Jews out of Germany by increasing purchases of German goods.

The intergovernmental committee may be asked to float a large loan to help finance the exodus from Germany of 75,000 young Jews within the next year, some quarters predicted. The committee includes representatives of thirty-two nations.

ELECTRIC SHOCK KILLS WORKMAN.

Dixon, Ill., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—John W. Carey, 26 years old, was killed yesterday when his leg came in contact with a high voltage wire. He was working at the steam plant of the Illinois Northern Utilities company here.

BANDITS SEIZE SEVEN FUR COATS VALUED AT $5,000

Cloakroom thieves stole seven fur coats, valued by their owners at about $5,000 last night while the owners were attending the annual dinner-dance of the Bessie I. Benjamin auxiliary, Daughters of Zion, in the Daughters of Zion Day Nursery and Orphanage, 1401 North California avenue.

Three hundred persons were in the main room. Sam Garfinkel, 1411 South Central Park avenue, and Paul Glass, 2102 South Central Park avenue, attendants, were on duty in the cloak room when two men appeared. They represented themselves as orphanage officials, and pretended to inspect the cloakroom. Suddenly they picked up seven coats, ran out, and escaped in a car.

COLDS ARE RAGING

Precautions Are Recommended. Follow This Simple Guide In Your Home. It May Save You And Your Family Much Suffering.

1

Get plenty of rest and sleep. Eat light, nourishing food. Drink plenty of water. Keep bowels open.

2

To Help Prevent Colds Developing . . . Use Vicks Va-tro-nol—a few drops up each nostril at the first warning nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze—to help Nature prevent the cold from developing. (If you have a head cold, use Va-tro-nol to shrink swollen, irritated membranes and relieve the suffocating effects of clogging mucus.)

3

To Relieve Misery of a Developed Cold . . . Massage throat, chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub—spread a thick layer on chest, cover with a warmed cloth and go to bed. Often, after a night of restful sleep, most of the misery of the cold is gone.

VAPORUB VICKS VA-TRO-NOL

Remember, colds DO spread. So live sensibly—and always have a bottle of Va-tro-nol and a jar of VapoRub handy.

VIANDS WITH A PEDIGREE

By CALEB

BACK at the turn of the century, featured fare on a certain Western railway was that delectable dish—skillfully blended and baked by the dining-car chef in person—known as "chicken pie." So celebrated, in fact, was this favorite of epicures, that standing orders required its service daily on every diner . . . and Nebraska and Wyoming cattlemen were known to board the run out of Kansas City, Lincoln or Omaha, and ride a hundred miles just to replenish appetite arrears on this one piece de resistance.

Something there is, apparently, about chicken pie that engenders in Chicagoans this same fervent loyalty displayed by the sombreroed Westerner. At least, that has been the fate and destiny of this dish at Field's—for not only was its rich, mouth-watering original served on our first menus of forty-nine years ago, but it still stands tops among the patron preferences of 1939.

Tops, that is, along with one or two other historic mealtime immortals: such as the irresistible chicken salad that graced our earliest service—also preeminent orange punch that comes from the same recipe now that gave it fame in 1890—to say nothing of an old-fashioned "Field's special" corned-beef hash that has continuously gratified the palates of nearly three generations.

For viands like these, constructed in the manner and from the materials given renown on Field tables, have no life-span, no preknown longevity. They are eternal as appreciation; enduring as appetite itself. Along with such other Field specialties as doughnuts, codfish cakes, potato-flour muffins and ginger muffins, they have acquired timelessness that sources first in the recipes themselves, and last in the culinary skill applied to their actual production . . .

Should a broad-brimmed, booted-and-spurred plainsman of the West wander into any of our tea rooms, in days to come, and order himself an old-fashioned, Field-style chicken pie . . . it wouldn't surprise us in the least to see him look up from the first bite, and hear him say: "Well, I'll be doggoned! Am I, by any chance, back on board that good old Blankington dining-car again?"

3 EX-PRESIDENTS OF REALTY BOARD INDORSE GREEN

G. O. P. Candidate Plans 25 Talks This Week.

Indorsement yesterday of Dwight H. Green for mayor by three former presidents of the Chicago Real Estate board gave Green a running start for the busiest week in his campaign.

On Green's request for "action, and plenty of it," the regular Republican organization has scheduled twenty-five speaking engagements, three of them by radio. There will be nine massmeetings, beginning tomorrow night with gatherings at 4723 Madison street and 6313 Yale avenue.

Tonight at 9:30 p. m. he will have a visible audience of 400 Young Republicans when he delivers his regular weekly radio talk over WMAQ. The broadcast will be made from the South Side Swedish club at 7330 Ridgeland avenue. His subject will be "Lincoln, the Young Republican."

See Relief from High Taxes.

Former presidents of the real estate board who indorsed Green are Adolph Kramer, Joseph K. Brittain, and George F. Nixon. They asserted that high taxes are a big factor in the paralysis of the building industry and real estate generally.

Excerpts from the statements of these three men follow:

Mr. Kramer—Green is a man of proved ability and one whose record shows he will keep his pledges. He has promised to reduce taxes and to give all sections of the city equal consideration.

Mr. Brittain—In Dwight H. Green the people have found a leader who exemplifies all that is desired in the new type of leadership. His campaign is a civic opportunity rather than a political enterprise. Every person who owns his home, pays rent, or has any interest in real estate will protect his investment by actively supporting Green.

Mr. Nixon—The election of Dwight Green as mayor will do more to restore confidence in Chicago than any other thing.

Arouse Women Taxpayers.

Chicago women paid $171,809,000 in taxes in 1937 and are aroused over the question of where the money goes, Mrs. Leona M. Rohen, former president of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs, said yesterday in advocating Green.

"Women are beginning to understand that a large proportion of their family income is paid out each year to be wasted by incompetents in public office," she said. "We need a mayor who will put the city on a 'pay as you go' basis. To my mind Dwight H. Green is the man for the job."

A drive to enlist physicians, surgeons, and dentists in support of Green was begun yesterday by Dr. Martin G. Luken and Dr. Warren Johnson.

Political Notes

Adam F. Bloch, clerk of the Illinois Supreme court and one of the winners on the Horner state ticket in the 1938 Democratic primary, indorsed Mayor Kelly yesterday in a radio speech.

"We believe Mayor Kelly has administered his office honestly," he said. "At no time is the possibility of the other alternative suggested to the public mind."

Russell B. Wise, a teacher in the Thomas Kelly High school, in a radio speech under the sponsorship of the Courtney campaign committee, accused Mayor Kelly of an alliance with the "Capone mob." Wise was one of the plaintifs who lost a court battle last year to invalidate the eligible list for school principals.

The All-Chicago committee supporting Mayor Kelly has begun distribution of a booklet on taxation in which "Ma" and "Pa" discuss the fundamentals of the subject in everyday language.

Headquarters of State's Attorney Courtney yesterday made public an indorsement of his candidacy by Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court.

"Thomas J. Courtney," it read, "typifies the younger element in the Democratic party who have contributed so greatly to our city."

The newly formed glass industries division of the All-Chicago committee will give a luncheon in honor of Mayor Kelly at the Sherman hotel today. The co-chairmen of the division are J. J. A. Kelly, president of the Glass Dealers association, and I. Lipman. The membership includes 125 glass manufacturers and distributors.

In a radio speech, County Judge Jarecki repeated his earlier indorsement of State's Attorney Courtney, saying: "If I were now silent as others have become I should expose myself to well deserved ridicule."

Musical instruments valued at $1,175 were stolen last night from the room of Louis Cohen, a musician, in the Hotel Berniss, 1414 Pratt boulevard, according to a report he made to police.

WOMAN DIES OF HEART ATTACK.
Mrs. Ella Heck, 55 years old, 9541 McVickers avenue, Worth township, died yesterday of a heart attack.

DESERTER FROM FORT SHERIDAN BATTLES POLICE

Caught less than two hours after he had escaped from Fort Sheridan, Eugene Bell, an alleged army deserter, put up a desperate battle with three policemen on the near north side last night.

Bell, who is 22 years old, and is said to be under a three year sentence for desertion, escaped from the guardhouse at Fort Sheridan about 10 p. m. He stole a military police squad car, and headed for Chicago. A radio alarm was sent out.

Policemen Bert Larson, James McCarthy, and George Olson sighted him in the car at Clark and Ohio streets shortly before midnight. He tried to escape, but three warning shots stopped him at La Salle and Ohio streets. There he fought so desperately to get away that the combined efforts of the three policemen were required to subdue him. He was returned to the fort.

TEMPORARY AIR LOCK IN; SPEEDS WORK ON SUBWAY

Excavation work on the first section of the State street subway will be speeded up tomorrow, Contractor Frank J. Herlihy announced yesterday. The stepping-up process is made possible by completion of a temporary air lock.

Herlihy, whose company is constructing the three-fourths mile section between Illinois street and Bellevue place, said the diggers will begin working under air pressure for the first time this week. They will excavate a space for the construction of permanent air locks forty-five feet below the surface just west of State street, near Chicago avenue.

About 120 men will be working on the project this week, Herlihy said By April 1 more than 700 men will be employed. Much of the work thus far has had to do with digging entrance shafts, installing elevators, and putting in trackage and machinery.

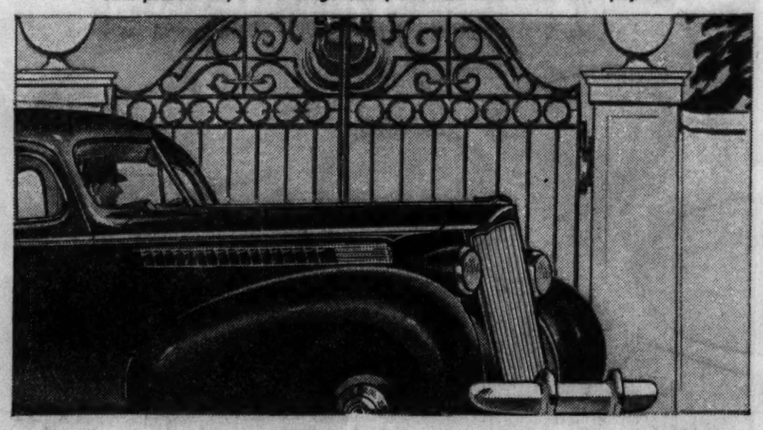
$354* Puts a Packard in your garage

*Your present car, if of average value, will take care of this down payment



You can own a big, luxurious 1939 Packard Six delivered here complete for $1063.00 Compare this price with the complete delivered price of other cars before you buy.

HAVE YOU always been the man who's wanted a Packard since he was in knee pants—and never got it?

Or the neighbor who stared admiringly when the fellow next door got one? Or the friend who tendered congratulations instead of receiving them?

Don't be that man any longer. Not when you can get a new Packard, delivered to your door, for such a low price. Not when the down payment is so low that your present car, if of average value, will cover it. Not when the monthly payments are also remarkably low.

Before you buy any other car, compare its delivered price with that of Packard. Compare the payments. And see if you are really wise to deprive yourself—any longer—of this better-built, styled-to-stay-in-style Packard.

LEGISLATIVE QUIZ ON CHICAGO POLL LISTS IS HINTED

Flouting of Registration Safeguard Charged.

BY PARKE BROWN.

A strong likelihood of a legislative investigation of the registration of Chicago voters developed yesterday as a result of the scrutiny of the printed precinct poll lists distriubted by the board of election commissioners Friday.

It was found by members of the legislature that the board had ignored a safety provision of the emergency act passed late in January which requires that the precinct lists bear the facsimile signatures of the members of the board. This led to a suspicion among ward leaders that the present lists later might be declared unofficial and might be replaced with other lists carrying the required signatures.

Find Lists Full of Errors.

The next discovery was that the new lists are packed with errors. These reports came from several wards where tallying had begun. As an example, State Senator William J. Connors, Democratic committeeman of the 42d ward, charged that in twelve precincts alone his captains found that seventy names of registered voters had been omitted, that the names of fourteen deceased persons were included in the lists along with the names of 323 other persons who had moved away from the addresses given for them.

"The deceased voters," said Connors, "have been dead for periods ranging up to two years. In addition there are other kinds of errors. Nine voters who live on Scott street are listed as living on Goethe street. There are many instances in which the house numbers are wrong. Some names are so misspelled as to be unrecognizable and some voters are listed at addresses where occupants say they never heard of them.

"Another bad phase of the situation is that the time limit for the filing of suspect notices expired Saturday night. We are helpless to correct the errors we know are in the lists."

Declare Law Is Flouted.

Senator Harold G. Ward sponsored a bill the purpose of which was to prevent a recurrrence of the scandal of last year when 100,00 registration cards were missing from the election board files. The new bill provided that even if a voter's card be missing from the files he may vote if his name is on the printed poll list and two householders attest to his qualifications.

The bill was amended in the house on the motion of Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg to require that the poll lists, which the bill provided must be published ten days after the last day of registration, carry the signatures of the three election commissioners. The new lists carry those names printed in type. Schnackenberg contends this flouts the safety requirement he demanded.

HOUSE TO VOTE 376 MILLION FOR ARMY THIS WEEK

Bulk of Appropriation Is to Build Up Air Corps.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt will get action on the major part of his 552 million dollar national defense program this week. The house Tuesday will begin consideration on the bill which authorizes the expenditure of 376 million dollars for building up the army, particularly the air corps. The house is expected to pass the measure Wednesday or Thursday.

No opposition is expected to develop from the Republican party. The bill was reported unanimously by the house military affairs committee. Republican members of the committee declared it to be a "reasonable and sound program" for the protection of continental United States.

Although it is acknowledged that the expenditure of such a sum will follow through the administration's pork barrel pump priming program, members of congress in both parties feel it is imperative that the United States be properly armed so that its voice will be respected by war bent dictator nations.

Pleasing to Both Services.

In the army and navy the defense program taking shape on Capitol hill—the navy's share of the expansion program has not been placed in legislative form—is regarded as an excellent revamping of what Mr. Roosevelt called for in his defense message.

Both branches of the service are pleased that the President's plan to train pilots through the National Youth administration, which was considered radical, has been spiked. The army and navy have moved to supervise the training of pilots through special schools.

The army won its demand for inclusion of an item providing $10,000,000 to train pilots for army flying. The army plans a ten year program which will give it enough regular pilots to maintain its increased air force.

Navy to Ask 2½ Millions.

The navy has not asked a definite sum for the training of pilots. However, it is expected to ask 2½ million dollars for the purpose. This sum will be used largely for the training of special pilots, who are to be given short term commissions.

The President's suggestion for spending $10,000,000 to train pilots through the National Youth administration has been turned over to the Civil Aeronautics authority. This group is preparing to ask for the sum to initiate the training of 20,000 commercial pilots. Under this plan the government will give ground training and thirty-five hours of flying training to acceptable candidates at 300 colleges and flying schools.

The plan has been given a start by the National Youth administration with $100,000 made available at thirteen colleges at the direction of the President. Contracts have been let to organizations, which are training the students at a cost of $200 to $300 per pupil.

Fewer Planes Favored.

In the house military affairs committee, the Republican group supported the movement to lower the original authorization of 6,000 planes, favored by the President, to 5,500. The present authorization is 2,320 planes. The Republicans unsuccessfully sought to limit to 1,000 the number of planes that could be added in any one year on the ground that the limitation would retard obsolescence.

In its deliberations, the house committee received virtually no information as to the effectiveness of aerial bombs or as to the number and efficiency of the planes that the American air force might be called upon to meet in actual combat. This was another reason advanced by the Republicans in pleading for slower and more sure development of the nation's air defenses.

There have been murmurs of disappointment that the bill does not call for military training in CCC camps. The army, although conscious of the growing demand that CCC boys be taught to shoot, did not ask an appropriation for this purpose.

The bill before the house authorizes the expenditure of $376,000,000 for defense purposes and thus constitutes more than two-thirds of Mr. Roosevelt's $552,000,000 program. Committee members pointed out that the $110,000,000 asked by the President for vital war materials [scrap iron and other munitions] is authorized in existing legislation and therefore was not included in the measure. The construction of new naval bases is provided in a measure before the house naval affairs committee.

Experimental Orders Covered.

In addition to authorizing the expenditure of $300,000,000 for additional army planes, the bill will add approximately 40,000 officers and men to the regular army, raising its strength to 205,000. The increases include 2,514 in the regular officer personnel, 36,828 in enlisted men, 808 in flying cadets and 603 in reserve officers.

Also covered in the bill is the immediate expenditure of $32,500,000 for the placement of "educational orders" for munitions and other war materials. This provision was designed to give factories supplying the army a chance to test out new and speedier production methods.

Another section of the bill authorizes an expenditure of $23,750,000 for the strengthening of sea coast and anti-aircraft defenses, as well as auxiliary defenses at the Panama canal.

ALARM CLOCK IS USED TO REGULATE FEEDING SCHEDULE FOR STEER

Denton, Md., Feb.12—(AP)—An Aberdeen Angus steer being raised by Boys of the Caroline High school as a baby beef project wasn't doing so well on a 10 a. m. and 3 p. m. feeding schedule—but he's thriving now. Every night, come midnight, an alarm clock above the steer's stall rings. A cord on the bell hammer trips a lever and down a chute and into the steer's feed box plunges a midnight snack.

Robbers Beat Driver; Take His Cab, Uniform, and $7

George Goerner, 30 years old, 342 West 65th street, a taxicab driver, was severely beaten early today when he fought back at two robbers. They got into his cab at 69th street and Wentworth avenue. At 50th street and Shields avenue they forced him out and took $7 and his uniform cap and coat. When they started to get back into the cab Goerner struck at them, but was kicked and hit on the head with a gun. He was taken to Evangelical hospital.

140 U. S. SHIPS AND 600 PLANES MASS FOR 'WAR'

Fleet in Atlantic to Test Canal's Defenses.

(Picture on back page.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—(AP)—With much of the last minute bustle and secrecy of actual war, the United States fleet got up steam today at its Guantanamo, Cuba, base for a three week test of the Panama canal's defenses.

Admiral Claude C. Bloch, War Games Commander.

An attacking "white" force, under Admiral E. C. Kalbfus, will sail early tomorrow for a rendezvous far at sea. The annual war games are staged in the Atlantic for the first time in five years. Preliminary tactics were held in the Culebra Island area about a week ago.

World attention has been focused on the maneuvers by President Roosevelt's pronouncement that the national defense embraced the entire hemisphere, his subsequent 552 million dollar arms program, efforts at the Lima Pan-American conference to foster continental solidarity, and army and navy moves to establish new air bases in the Caribbean.

President to Be Spectator.

The chief executive himself intends to witness some of the mimic war from the deck of the cruiser Houston. Under tentative plans he will leave the capital Thursday.

The navy went at the solution of its officially designated "fleet problem 20" in grimly realistic style.

The 140 ships, 600 warplanes, and upwards of 55,000 officers, bluejackets and marines massed at and near Guantanamo constitute the most powerful peacetime sea force ever assembled in the Atlantic, officials said. Never before have so many aircraft been employed. Major fleet maneuvers heretofore have been held in the Pacific.

Opposing forces have been kept in ignorance of each other's plans. For days at a time the normally crackling wireless will be silenced. When the radio is used to flash the presence of "enemy" ships or planes, it will employ codes, at least theoretically undecipherable to opposing commanders.

Correspondents Are Barred.

Until March 5 there will be day and night duty, and no shore liberty, for either officers or men. Newspaper correspondents are barred.

A "black" fleet commanded by Vice Admiral Adolphus Andrews has the task of defeating a simulated attempt from Europe to establish a base on the American continent, presumably south of the United States.

The main attack and various feints may be made at any of numerous passages through the West Indies extending in a great semi-circle from Florida to the coast of Brazil.

The presence of more numerous long range patrol planes than ever before, capable of cruising 2,000 miles at sea and returning to their floating carriers and tenders, complicated the strategy of both forces.

Going Far Out Into Atlantic.

The "white" fleet must steam far into the Atlantic to avoid the eyes of "black fleet" pilots, and officials said the actual attack may not start for three or four days after admiral Kalbfus's force sails.

Because of the secret wireless codes employed, only President Roosevelt and the fleet's commander in chief, Admiral Claude C. Bloch, and their staffs, will be able to follow the progress of the war games. Admiral Bloch, aboard the battleship Pennsylvania, his flagship, have the plans and key to the codes of both forces.

Arizona Runs a Flagrant Law Violator Down to Earth

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Arizona law makes it a misdemeanor to build a public structure with the doors opening inward—yet the doors on Arizona's new capitol wing, built by the state, violate that law. The defect was brought to the attention of the board of directors of state institutions by William Petersen, state treasurer.

THE KING'S VISIT.

Some Englishmen who fear the American people will misbehave themselves when the king and queen visit the United States now think that President Roosevelt should guarantee the public conduct, particularly that of the newspapers. It is reported that Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, has been asked to request the White House for sureties of good behavior and for protection from publicity which would be unpleasant for their majesties and irritating to the British people. Apparently there is no fear that anything untoward will happen in Canada, but that confidence does not extend to the socially undisciplined democrats of the great republic.

State visits of such importance always are intended to have some deep significance. Royalties do not drop around just to have tea. It's to be presumed that the British government anticipates that there will be a profitable byproduct from the royal visit and that the relations with the American people will be more cordial and useful; otherwise there would be no purpose in asking King George and Queen Elizabeth to tax themselves with an experience which cannot be very enjoyable.

The government of Great Britain evidently wants the people of the United States to receive the king with all his royal and religious attributes and to impress on the world that we have joined the empire in sympathy and coöperation. If such an ambitious program should lead to embarrassment the responsibility would lie with those who sent the king over here.

Americans are a polite, good natured people who have forgotten the troubles they had with Great Britain when they wanted their independence and at various other times. They are not thinking any more of the injuries the British ruling classes have done to them or were willing to do if they could. They are even willing to forget what Lloyd George did to Woodrow Wilson. The king of England is an official person to the dominion of Canada but not to the United States, and he is not the head of any church in America. Our diplomats will bend the knee and our ocean liner populace will say "your majesty," but the shouts of "Hi, king!" will predominate, and they should be accepted in the tone they are uttered—with good natured tolerance.

George VI. is a gentleman whose expectations did not include the duties and obligations he has been obliged to assume. He is performing these duties to the best of his ability. He is entitled to the consideration due any man in like circumstances. If he and Queen Elizabeth come to the United States they will be the central figures in a popular circus. The whole business may be an extraordinary trial to him as a man and now is the time to consider whether or not it is foolish to expose him to it.

The British need not get nasty about the prospects in store for the visit if the arrangers persist. Naturally, the people of the United States regard the monarchical institution as a curiosity. They know its antiquity, its traditional values, and its place in the long history of the British people. But the majority of them cannot be expected to show an innate reverence when royalty is on display. There will be no intentional rudeness but a great deal of curiosity.

It is not to be expected that the American people will take on over night the demeanor of the British with regard to the royal family. It would be asking too much of the London populace to require it to adopt the even greater reverential behavior of the Japanese if the Japanese government were foolish enough to allow the emperor to make a state visit to London. Behavior when the emperor is in sight is much more disciplined in character than the etiquet guarding the British monarch. It is impermissible for the crowds even to look at him. England might offend the Japanese, if they sought offense, much as America may offend the English.

It might be suggested to the British that this visit is being arranged by their own authorities for purposes which the authorities undoubtedly have in mind. The host cannot be expected to change all his habits, although he will do his best to make the guests' visit pleasant. If the guests have so many misgivings regarding the visit it would be good sense to consider them all in advance and not be so determined beforehand to find many things displeasing and obnoxious in the reception.

ROOSEVELT'S NEW YORK.

Seven months ago District Attorney Dewey of New York started his investigation of Judge Manton. The judge had been on the federal bench all through the Roosevelt régime as governor, and no one in Albany or New York had bothered to inquire into his conduct. Mr. Roosevelt has been President for six years, and throughout that time no one in the department of justice had dared to trouble himself about Judge Manton, though it now appears that disturbing rumors have been circulating in New York and Washington for a long time. If it had not been for Mr. Dewey's courage and perseverance, Manton would still be senior judge in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in New York. Thanks to Mr. Dewey, Manton has resigned from the bench and the facts regarding him are being weighed by the federal grand jury.

A parallel condition has been disclosed in Brooklyn. Special Prosecutor John Harlan Amen discovered that nine members of the current grand jury had criminal records. The nine have been indicted for perjury and three have confessed and pleaded guilty. The others await trial. In addition, Mr. Amen has found that eight among thirty names picked at random from the special or blue-ribbon jury panel in Kings county are those of men with police records, several of whom have been convicted of felonies. The system which put felons on grand juries and trial juries was not exposed or halted during Mr. Roosevelt's term as governor of the state. Neither he nor any of his political associates had any interest in the matter.

And the Hines trial should not be overlooked. The defendant was Mr. Roosevelt's chosen leader in New York. He was hand-picked to dispense the New Deal patronage and boss the Roosevelt political machine. That fact should not be forgotten; it is of greater significance for the country than the supposed suicide of Weinberg, the witness who in the first trial pointed to Hines as the political fixer who was paid by the racketeers to let them operate without hindrance from the police and the courts.

Here are three illustrations of the kind of politics which Mr. Roosevelt represents, or rather three illustrations of Mr. Roosevelt's politics.

ECONOMY IN ILLINOIS.

A resolution calling for an investigation of state expenditures in the last four years comes before the house of representatives at Springfield tomorrow. Thanks to the Republican victories last November the party now has a majority in the house. Floor Leader Robert Branson has sent an urgent telegram to all 79 Republicans in the house asking them to be on hand to vote for the proposal. It is to be hoped and expected that the summons will be heeded; Republicans who avoid the issue will be guilty of a gross betrayal of the voters who elected them.

The demand for economy in government was one of the two or three most important considerations in the minds of the voters when they rebuked the Democratic régime at Springfield. The people of this state, as of many others, had grown weary of constantly mounting expenditures and corresponding increases in taxes. Every one knew and every one knows that much of the money has been spent for political purposes, to build and maintain an organization which would be, so it was thought, invincible at the polls. The people proved that the machine was far from invincible and it remains for their new representatives to put an end to the waste.

The meaning of the election has been clearly understood in Washington, as is evidenced by the insistence upon a reduction in the appropriations for WPA. The Republican victories in Wisconsin, Rhode Island, and many other states have already led to economies in their government costs. The Republicans in Illinois are pledged to economy and if the party is to hold its present gains and grow in strength in the future it, too, must make good its promises.

A thoroughgoing legislative inquiry into state expenditures is greatly needed. It is proposed, among other things, to make an exhaustive study of the state's pay rolls during the 1936 and 1938 primary and election campaigns, to discover how heavily the lists were loaded with jobholders. The facts should throw much light upon the question of how much money is really needed to maintain the state's activities and how much has been added for purposes of controling primaries and elections.

The resolution should pass. Any Republican who fails to attend the session and vote for the measure will have earned the scorn of his constituents and for all practical purposes will have read himself out of his party. It should be unnecessary to add that Democrats who attempt to block the inquiry will be remembered, and not with gratitude, when next they come before the voters for reëlection.

THE AMERICAN FRONTIER.

While the American people are speculating on what the President said to the senate committee on foreign affairs about the military frontier of the United States under his régime it might pay them to reflect upon what they want the frontier to be; in other words, what line are they willing to fight for?

Just as a start on the subject and without dogmatizing, let us put down a few suggestions. First, of course, after the actual national boundaries is the Panama canal. It is hardly to be doubted that the nation would fight to prevent any foreign power from endangering our control over the canal which is in fact a part of our coast line. This implies the defense of any port north of the equator.

We should probably fight in aid of any South American country that asked for help in trouble with a non-American power. But if a South American country entered into alliance with or subjected itself to the control of a non-American country or countries, would we attack her?

In the Pacific we shall hold the line of Hawaii. The present administration apparently intends more extensive responsibilities, but we lost the power to enforce them on tolerable terms when Great Britain and France turned over the German islands to Japan.

Northward in either or both the Pacific and Atlantic we should presumably fight in alliance with Canada.

This represents what may be called our basic policy which is based on the defensive theory or the determination of the American people not to engage in imperialist adventure. It is essential to a satisfactory establishment of this policy that we possess all bombing bases off our coast, including, of course, the canal.

Our people, we are confident, are not in sympathy with any policy that advances our frontier into Europe or Asia. We will not fight for the Balkans, Asia Minor, Africa, or India under any theory of alleged responsibility. We will not accept an invitation to help keep Africa or Syria under French imperial rule or to assist the British mandates in Asia Minor or elsewhere, however eloquently it may be urged upon us as a war for democracy. The imperialist interests in Asia and Africa seem to the practical American mind to have been governed by "the good old rule, the simple plan, that they should take who have the power, and they should keep who can."

Fundamental American policy dictates the American frontier and both are founded on the practical sense and proper self-interest of the American nation, not upon the ambitions of politicians temporarily in power or of minorities regardless of the common welfare.

NOT TOO MUCH.

Manager—Yes, I'm looking for a lad to learn office work. Is your boy honest?

LINCOLN COMES HOME.

(Lincoln's funeral train arrived at Springfield, Ill., at 9 a. m. on May 3, 1865.)

Oh! my tall, my homely friend,
Your eyes no longer smile.
Lo! you have trod the winepress
That last lonely mile.

A mask is on your kindly face
And on your cheek the mole,
While underneath the matted hair
That cruel bullet hole;

Crape is on the White House door,
A weight upon each rafter,
And bloodless are the loving lips
So bereft of laughter;

And black is on a woman's gown,
But blacker still, a hearse;
The Lord is speaking to the land
In chapter and in verse . . .

Ah! my never forgotten friend,
With neither guilt nor guile,
You open not your eyes to see
The people mile on mile;

The Iron Horse that you foresaw,
Galloping plain and hill,
Brings you home to Illinois—
So spent are you and still.

Now kneeling in the morning rain
Are Negro men and white;
The headlight of the coming train
Becomes for both a light.

Strolling Down the Green Bay Road.

It's about time Clark street quit taking all the credit [2-8-'39] for being the Green Bay road of stagecoach times. Originally this trail went out over Rush street on the diagonal north of Chicago avenue, and the modern near north side carouser may know of a three cornered grass plot at Rush and State—the Green Bay Triangle.

In those times the Rush street diagonal continued past State and ran into Clark at North avenue. From here the Green Bay traveler continued northward over Clark and Ridge avenue through old Ridgeville township and through Ouilmette's reservation over what is now Sheridan road. From Wilmette to Hubbard Woods the route was about on the present line of Sheridan road and in Hubbard Woods the old highway ran into the modern Green Bay road.

America's Favorite Myth.

Speaking of myths on Grand avenue [2-8-'39]: The official printed list of registered voters for the 21st precinct of the 28th ward, dated October, 1938, lists eighteen adults at 2666 Grand avenue. I take a look; it's an old one story building, formerly a garage or shop, vacant. Then I look for more myths. At 2634-36 Chicago avenue I find fourteen people listed, and behold, there I see vacant lots, without even a tent to shelter them poor people. Smeller Outer.

BEACH AT EBB TIDE.

Give me a stretch of windswept beach,
Where sandpipers nimbly wade
Their pale pink feet in the mirror of sky
That an ebbing tide has laid.

Where beyond the combers' curling green,
Far from the shore and home,
Swift skimmers dart in their undulant flight,
Dipping to feed in the foam.

Happily there I shall gather shells;
For this sand-scoured litter the sea
Has disengorged from its restless maw
Brings peace in its futility.

Glamor Girls of Old Shows.

Apropos of the Line's frequent mention of your beloved theater, and harking back to yesteryear, how many of your readers recall the shapely Bonnie Maginn ["Nancy Clancy, You're My Fancy"] in one of Weber and Fields' earlier travesties; the petite Edna May in "Three Little Maids"; Lotta Faust, the beauteous ingénue, in various vehicles, or the sloe eyed Marie Doro in "The Richest Girl"? How many recall Mabel Hite and Johnny Slavin in "A Knight for a Day"; Frank Daniels ["Is My Face Red?"] in "The Office Boy," or the comic legs of Francis Wilson in "The Strollers" and in "Erminie"?

How many remember the hilarious but raucous laugh of Lee Harrison in "Babette" or the dry humor of Raymond Hitchcock in "The Yankee Consul"? How many recollect Mansfield's performance in "Old Heidelberg" or the capers of Richard Carle in "The Spring Chicken" or the drolleries of Sam Bernard?

From their memory's storehouse, who can bring to mind Lulu Glaser and Eugene Cowles in "Dolly Varden" and his bass "Song of the Sword"; Fritzi Scheff in "The Two Roses"; the diminutive English Kitty Barry and her song, "My Word, Isn't That Absurd?" from "The Soul Kiss," and Jimmy Powers' "Hello, People; People, Hello," in "Havana"? Who can still hear Leslie Stuart's musical gems in the "Belle of Mayfair," and the ne'er-to-be-forgot "Message of the Violet" from the "Prince of Pilsen"?

Ah, Time, ah, Time, pause in thy flight. Make me a youth again, just for tonight.

ARE FEVER BLISTERS RELATED TO SMALLPOX?

IN these days of changing temperatures—when the thermometer may rise or fall 20 or 30 degrees Fahrenheit within a few hours—adjustment to variable conditions is sometimes difficult. If illness ensues we say that the patient's resistance is low. In other words, exposure has depressed the fighting powers of the system to such an extent that certain maladies are likely to become evident. One may develop a cold and another the grippe. Of a hundred persons subjected to identical circumstances probably not more than five will exhibit the slightest effect.

Among the minor symptoms which may appear is that miserable, annoying outbreak known as a fever blister or cold sore. Physicians recognize this disorder as herpes.

What is the cause? Apparently the responsible agent is a filtrable virus which attacks nervous tissue. Thus we account for a breaking out on the chest wall—along the course of a nerve.

Some individuals will have repeated sieges with cold sores. No sooner will one fade than another erupts. A reddish, tender swelling manifests itself on the lip. This gradually increases in extent and is very sensitive to pressure. Within a few days a blister forms, filled with fluid, and when this ruptures and dries up healing occurs. Depending upon the severity of the infection or the reserve of the victim the episode may last for a few days or for a week or two. Dabbing the spot frequently with an alcoholic solution, such as spirits of camphor, will hasten recovery. While this type of blemish is of no relative significance nevertheless should an eye or the larynx become involved, no time should be lost in securing expert assistance.

During the last few years new light has been shed on the problem and the suggestion has been offered—with some experimental proof—that there may be a positive relationship between shingles and the virus which is responsible for smallpox. For example, Ullman reports complete cures in four cases of recurrent lesions in the throat after the patient was vaccinated with smallpox lymph. The only explanation seems to be that the vaccine matter carries with it protective elements against some allied forms.

He cites the experience of a 25 year old woman who had sizable fever blisters on her upper lip. In fact, for a period of more than three years she was scarcely free from this or kindred trouble. Because it was thought that infection might enter through the tonsils these structures were removed and although a short respite was afforded nevertheless within two months the lips were again affected. About this time—preparatory to a trip to the orient—it was necessary to vaccinate her against smallpox. Strangely enough, all lesions, thereupon, disappeared and there has been no sign of recurrence. Similar results were obtained in three other instances.

Equally favorable outcomes have followed the injection under the skin of small amounts of the patient's own blood. There is no harm in the method and rather spectacular relief has been observed subsequent to its employment. The plan has not been used long enough, however, to determine its permanent value. Smallpox vaccine offers an even simpler process, and physicians await with great interest added information on the procedure.

Among my friends I know of many who are bothered throughout the cold season with these sores. They seem to be unable to raise the reserve high enough to overcome them. They note, however, that whenever they obtain plenty of sleep and adhere to a daily program which is free from worry and anxiety, that there is a marked lessening in the number of bouts.

DOCTOR DISAPPROVES.

U. H. writes: My physician does not believe in prescribing gland preparations to ease the symptoms of the menopause. How can I convince him that they may be helpful?

REPLY.

While it is true that physicians are usually in a position to judge the value of medication, it is frequently necessary for them to rely upon the experience of investigators who work with a new type of drug. Your family doctor should read the reliable medical journals to keep abreast of advances in modern medicine.

LOCKJAW.

C. M. writes: Does one injection against lockjaw make a person immune for life?

REPLY.

No. The immunity lasts for only a short time. In severe wounds, it is advised that the usual dose [1,500 units] be repeated in 7 to 10 days. Because of the danger of gas gangrene the serum used should include antitoxin which will protect against this condition.

INDUCED FEVER.

M. T. writes: In what diseases is artificial fever employed?

REPLY.

Syphilis of the nervous system, chorea, multiple sclerosis, and certain form of arthritis.

CONFESS JUDGMENT.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. A tenant enters into a lease with a landlord and the lease contains a confession of judgment clause. The landlord confesses judgment on the lease and this judgment is satisfied. He then confesses judgment a second time. I would like to know whether the power to confess is valid once the power is exercised?

2. I have been told that the power expires when it is a note, under the Illinois law, but may be exercised more than once in a lease. I fail to see the distinction, and would appreciate your opinion on the law in this connection. T. F. H.

1. The power of attorney to confess judgment on a lease is valid once the power is exercised, since it can be used at the option of the lessor each and every month the tenant is in default in rent for the entire term of the lease.

2. The confession clause in a note is for a single amount, namely the amount of the note and can be exercised only once in view of the single default under a note. The right to confess judgment on a lease can be exercised as many times as there are defaults in payments of rent, pursuant to said lease.

SECRET ALLIANCES.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 3.—Sec. 12 of Article II. of the constitution of the United States provides the President "shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur;"

A tragic fate has called our nation's attention to the startling fact that the President of the United States has violated the spirit and the letter of this positive mandate of our fundamental law. This is not the first or only occasion the President has displayed his contempt for the limitations imposed on the presidency by our constitution. The secret alliance entered into by the President with France, disclosed only by the crash of the American military bomber in Los Angeles last week, is a positive and direct repudiation by the President of the oft-repeated mandate of our people that our government remain free from entangling alliances with foreign nations. It demonstrates a wanton disregard of the policy that has been our guide in foreign affairs since the formation of our government.

The President and his spokesmen have given the impression that the alliance has been made in the interest of the democracies of the world. The act of the President in summoning the military affairs committee of the senate and coercing from them a pledge of secrecy before disclosing the facts in reference to this alliance has far more of the earmarks of the conduct of a dictator of a totalitarian state than that of the chief executive of a representative democracy.

What is the real motive behind the efforts of the President to involve us in the existing European muddle? The President's attack on the Supreme court and his attempt through the reorganization bill to centralize authority in the executive is not evidence of strong devotion to the principles of democratic government. Mr. Bullitt, our present ambassador to France, and former ambassador to Russia, is credited with having fostered the alliance. In view of the very cordial relations with Russia and France, one cannot believe that France is irrevocably opposed to all forms of totalitarian government. Is it possible that the collapse of the President's economic and domestic program has inspired the idea of diverting our attention from the domestic chaos by involvement in the European situation? Would a European crisis overcome the popular sentiment of our people against a third term?

Regardless of motive this alliance entered into without warrant or authority of law may vitally affect the lives and most sacred interests of every American citizen. These interests are far more important than any consideration for saving the face of any individual regardless of his position. The constitution is still the supreme law of the land.

It provides in Sec. 23, Article VI., of the constitution, the senators shall be bound by an oath to support the constitution. Treaties or alliances can only be made with the advice and consent of two-thirds of the senate under its provisions. Therefore, any alliance entered into by the President with a foreign nation without the advice and consent of two-thirds of the senators present, is a direct violation of the provisions of our constitution. Can it possibly be contended that the President has any right to demand that a senator betray his oath of office by not disclosing to the public the terms of an illegal alliance entered into by the President with a foreign nation? It is the bounden duty of our elected representatives in the senate to publicly disclose the true facts regarding any commitments that may have been made to any foreign government. Furthermore, they should, by resolution, serve notice to the nations of the world that our government will not be bound by any agreement heretofore or hereafter made, unless, and until that agreement has been ratified and approved by a two-thirds vote of the senate.

The American people, and particularly the mothers and wives, will not again permit the use of our youth as cannon fodder in the settlement of the century old conflicts of Europe.

WASTING FLOUR.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—With the typical vote influencing generosity of the New Deal [deuces wild!] flour is being dished out so indiscriminately that bakers and millers are expressing extreme vexation.

The brain busters conveniently call it "surplus" flour. This is bitterly true in the following reported cases: "A 200 population town in Maine has received five carloads in 60 days! . . . 14 barrels, in New Jersey, so mishandled that it spoiled and is unfit for human consumption. . . . City of Cleveland, 50 cars in the last two months, of which two-thirds still are in storage."

Yes, yes, congress certainly should vote that $150,000,000 for Franklin's comedians to toss around. We can pay the bill any old time—now that the President has discovered a balanced budget is not worth the effort. But when are we going to try that 25 per cent reduction in federal expenditures—after first reducing the gross total to the 1932 level—which was when, the pity of it all, it was related to us by the great white father? BILL MAYOR.

INTERNATIONAL VISITS.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—When Mr. Roosevelt visited Argentina he was received with the acclaim due the head of a great and friendly state. The civilized Argentineans did not throw brickbats at him before his arrival; nor did they kick him in the pants while he was there.

His mission was one of undisguised propaganda, but he was a guest and was received with the honors and consideration universally extended to invited guests by untutored tribes and cultured nations, alike.

South Americans are not particularly enamored of us, but if they had indulged in a campaign of vilification, sarcasm, and innuendo such as certain elements in this country, including THE TRIBUNE and its Mr. Darrah, have been and are directing toward the king and queen of England and the British people prior to their majesties' visit, we would have been justified in regarding our Latin friends as provincial boors, deficient in cultural attainments and ignorant of the social obligations between gentlemen.

HIS VALENTINES.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—I wonder what has become of the colorful comic valentines of yesteryear. In this connection I hesitate to mention the hanging baskets the gals are wearing suspended over one corner of their fair heads. HOOSIER.

GIRLS IN A SAFETY PATROL.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—While the fact that Lucy Flower has a girl safety patrol is admirable, your article on it is not, for the following reasons:

It is very decidedly not the first such patrol. Ward Elementary school at 2701 South Shields avenue, has had such a patrol—and a very efficient one—since a year ago this January. In fact, we gave honor certificates in June for graduating members of what we call our Safety Monitor Patrol.

In January, 1938, the Chicago Motor club sent out to the schools the badges you so ably photographed. Our patrol was organized immediately, even before word came to say just how the girls' patrol should operate. Our patrol is still unique in its method in the city. The girls do not stand at the corners. Our Boys' Patrol takes care of that. The girls patrol the block to see that children do not cross the streets between intersections. Their work has been highly commendable and important, especially since there are many trucks in that neighborhood.

Last spring and last fall the girls visited Boys' court and Traffic court. They are a fully organized safety group to which recognition should be given.

NATURALIZATION CEREMONIES.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—The fourth division Americanism committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution has asked for the right to welcome the new citizens, presenting them with a desk flag and standard, and giving them the right hand of fellowship and D. A. R. welcome. We are still hoping for this privilege to be granted. However, through the efforts of the district manager of the Immigration and Naturalization courts, you will find a member of this committee at these courts each day from 9 to 4 o'clock, presenting the new applicants with a D. A. R. manual for citizenship, and whatever assistance is within their power.

MRS. RICHARD A. KNIEF,
Acting Chairman, Fourth Division Americanism Committee, D. A. R.

ABOUT ALDERMEN.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—In determining the fitness of an alderman for reëlection I believe that due attention should be given to the amount of time he has given the city during his present term.

It is a well known fact that some of these men seek the office merely for the purpose of obtaining sufficient influence to place every member of their own family, their in-laws, and their in-laws' in-laws on the pay rolls of the city.

SPEEDY DELIVERY.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—At ten minutes past two o'clock this afternoon a letter was delivered to me which was mailed from Gary, Ind., and postmarked 12 o'clock noon today. The elapsed time for delivery was two hours and ten minutes, and it was not a special delivery or air mail letter, but was delivered by regular carrier.

How is that for a record?

LITTLE COLDS Often Lead to BIG TRAGEDIES

Jones' Chair Is Empty Today!

He only had a "slight" cold yesterday. "I'll shake it off," he said.

But today he didn't show up. His wife phoned and she's worried.

It's the same old story—a light cold yesterday, today something more serious.

Take no chances with any cold! It can turn into something grave too fast.

Treat a cold's symptoms promptly. Treat them seriously.

Take famous Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ tablets).

Bromo Quinine tablets don't "fool." They really treat a cold's symptoms. They really relieve the distress.

They relieve the headache and other pains that go with a cold. They help reduce the fever that accompanies a cold. They lift that heavy feeling of stuffiness with which a cold oppresses and depresses you.

Thousands swear by Bromo Quinine tablets. Get a package today at any drug store. They come in two sizes. Buy the larger size—the economy size—as it gives you 20% more for your money.

CHILE SEES SOME FAST CHANGES IN POLITICAL SCENE

Reds Called the 'Rightists' of Popular Front.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 5.—[By Air Mail.]—Politics dominates all discussions in Chile these days. The Popular Front government which came into power last Dec. 24 is a mixture of Radicals, Socialists, and communists, with a Radical majority.

And what is hard to believe, political observers here say, is that the communists are the rightists of the outfit—they are said to be more conservative and not as demanding as the other parties.

Indications are that while the communists are openly supporting the new millionaire Radical president, Pedro Aguirre Cerda, they are waiting for more power before cracking the whip.

Socialists Seek Unity.

The Socialist Union party, headed by Deputy Ricardo Latcham, is now pressing a drive to eliminate dissension and consolidate all left wing parties supporting the government. The Socialist Union has a militia corps which wears red ties, khaki shirts, and military caps and their marching cries are "unity" and "loyalty," but once in a while they yell "down with Mussolini," and "down with Fascism in South America."

The Chilean Nazis, who since their unsuccessful Sept. 5 putsch have adopted the less provocative party title of Socialist Popular Vanguard, have declared for nationalization by "total expropriation" of the nitrate, copper, and iron ore industries as well as electric and railway services. Deputy Jorge Gonzalez von Maree heads the Vanguard.

The inauguration of the Aguirre government caused an uproar in administrative departments. Officials in one office one day are changed tomorrow. Some officials even say they have to get to their offices earlier nowadays in order to keep up with the daily change of official appointments.

Installs Own Supporters.

In the sweep of all governmental departments the president installed personnel that is in sympathy with Popular Front projects. The high commands of the army, navy, and air forces have been completely reorganized. The sweep also affects the police force, the diplomatic service, and provincial officials.

In an interview President Aguirre Cerda took note of a survey by the league of nations pointing out that 40 per cent of Chile's land was not under cultivation. The president stated that under his agricultural plan this land must produce, bringing about lower prices for products.

"It has been asserted," he said, "that we will attack foreign capital. This is childish. On the contrary we shall make the most of it to exploit our sources of production. All new industry will be aided by the state."

Says "No Need for Alarm."

Asked if he was aware of the feeling of alarm existing in some circles regarding the foreign policy of his Popular Front, the president replied:

"No one has anything to fear. Each country has a right to follow the internal policy which best suits it. As to our foreign relations I shall try to sign such commercial treaties as I deem convenient. We will buy from those who buy from us."

Replying to a question regarding his attitude toward Chile's large external debt, he said: "A conscientious study will be made of the matter in order to reach a decision which will neither affect our prestige nor harm our interests."

Pay on American Debt.

American holders on Chilean foreign debt bonds are now cashing their interest coupons for the first time since the default in 1931. Americans had objected to the terms of a 1935 servicing arrangement, but later accepted them. The funds are raised by nitrate and copper taxes. At the end of 1938 Chile owed $320,000,000 abroad, $182,281,000 of it to American investors.

The peso, which is Chile's monetary unit, has a value of approximately 4 cents in the present market. Chile, however, enjoys a favorable trade balance, continuously exporting more than she imports.

Nitrate [and iodine], copper, wool, iron ore, and meats are the principal exports, while textiles, machinery, sugar, petroleum, coffee [also tea and mate], automobiles, and newsprint paper are the chief imports.

Has Much American Capital.

More American capital [over $750,000,000] is invested in Chile than in any other South American country. Living standards are low here with wages for labor around 10 cent a day. Few highly skilled workmen get as much as $1 a day.

On all sides down in these South American republics remarks are heard about the United States crying for foreign trade. "How," they ask, "can we afford to eat a can of American sausage that costs us four days' work?"

Observers in all these countries assert that as long as wages are so high as in the United States and the cost of production what it is, North America cannot hope to sell its products to other countries whose standards of living are much lower.

Chile is on friendly terms with other South American countries, with a few thorns here and there. Most past difficulties with Peru have been forgotten, but the present Peruvian dictatorship is disliked. Also some circles assert that the "big bad wolf across the Andes" — Argentina—would like to have a long western coast line.

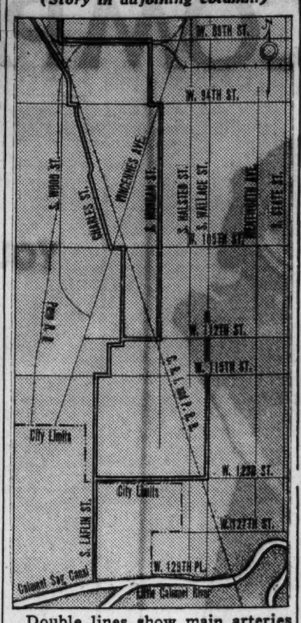
Sewer Project

(Story in adjoining column.)



Double lines show main arteries of Calumet-Beverly sewer system, for which Mayor Kelly will break ground today.

Division Street Bridge to Be Closed Five Nights

The Division street bridge over the north branch of the Chicago river will be closed from 9 p. m. to 5 a. m. for the next five nights to permit use of a pile driver in the river.

BREAK GROUND TODAY FOR NEW SEWER SYSTEM

Beverly-Calumet Project Will Benefit 55,000.

Mayor Kelly will break ground today to start work on the new Beverly-Calumet sewer system, which will extend more than twenty-six miles under south side streets. It will serve 55,000 persons. It is one of the largest projects of its kind started in Chicago in twenty-five years, according to city engineers.

The ground turning ceremonies will be held at 10:30 a. m. on the bank of the Calumet-Sag canal at 131st and Laflin streets, Calumet Park. The sewer's outlet will be at this point.

Beginning at 87th street and Prospect avenue, and at 88th and Honore streets, the two main sewers will extend south, joining at 112th and Throop streets. Then a single sewer will continue south to 123d and Laflin streets, where it will be connected with another built from 111th and Wallace streets.

Calumet Park Grants Outlet.

From 123d and Laflin streets, a single outlet will be laid through Calumet Park to the Sag canal. Under the terms of a special agreement with officials of the suburb, their sewers will be connected with the city sewer. This was necessary to obtain an outlet for the system.

The sewers, including the branches which will be connected with existing sewers, will be laid under forty-four different streets.

The original plans for the system were prepared fourteen years ago and called for an expenditure of nearly 9 million dollars. But the project now is to be done by federal work relief labor under supervision of the department of public works. It is estimated that 14,000 men will work ten months to complete the project. There will be no increase in taxes or special assessments, city officials said.

Statistics on Project.

The pipes will range in diameter from 2 to 17 feet. The larger pipes will require a trench 30 feet deep. The cost of removing dirt has been estimated at $576,000. Other expense items include: construction of the outlet in the Sag canal, $20,000; installation of control chamber, $46,000; adjustment of existing sewers, $268,000; manholes and catch basins, $132,000; purchase of crushed stone, $390,000.

An area of thirteen square miles, bounded by 87th and 131st streets and Western and Wentworth avenues is to be served by the system. If the work were done under the old special assessments the cost would be $692 per family benefited.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Our idea of the absolute height of luxury is some bath champagne we got as a Christmas present. It's really just as much fun to have a champagne bath as it is to sip a champagne cocktail. Maybe a better idea, too, for the girl who must work for her living and keep her wits about her.

Our newest whim for the bath isn't real champagne, of course. It's a nobby bath preparation with a champagnish, cologne fragrance that fills your bath with billows of iridescent foam. A teaspoonful does the trick, dropped into the tub under full water pressure.

It makes the bath soft as rain water and does help you in your zealous cultivation of a soft, velvety skin. And it's a lovely spirit lifter. You feel luxurious as anything.

It's packaged exactly like champagne, in quart bottles or a split. The large size looks like a bottle of the best bubble water money can buy. It's bound with gold cord, the neck swatched elegantly in chamois that has most important looking seals. It comes bedded in golden straw in a little wicker wine hamper and altogether is just about the most fetching gift you've ever seen. This hamper, incidentally makes a slick little sewing basket later on.

All this elegance isn't nearly as expensive as it sounds. You'll be pleasantly surprised at the price—and we think you'll feel that you get plenty for your money.

Saugatuck Art School Reunion to Be Gay Party

BY JUDITH CASS.

BIG parties are few and far between at this time of the year, so students, faculty members, and friends of the Saugatuck Summer School of Painting are looking forward with especial pleasure to a gay reunion on Saturday night. The party, an annual event, will be started at 7 o'clock in the studio of Thomas E. Tallmadge at 19 East Pearson street.

It is expected that other studios in that building will be thrown open for the party, among them those of Mrs. Howard Ellis and Franz Lipp, the landscape architect. After "light refreshments and lighter conversations," according to the invitations, the group will move on to the Normandy house at 9 o'clock for dinner, dancing, and surprises in the room decorated by Edgar Miller.

The school, which has been in operation for twenty-six years, has been run in conjunction with the summer school of the Art institute for the last four years. Located on the Ox-Bow, a wooded tract which separates the Kalamazoo river from Lake Michigan, the Saugatuck school has more than thirty acres of its own and has the use of 100 acres of forest belonging to Mr. Tallmadge.

The Joseph T. Ryersons, the Charles H. Worcesters, Charles West, the Walter S. Brewsters, and Russell Tyson are some of those who make a point of stopping at the school whenever they are in the vicinity in summertime. A favorite pastime of students and faculty is a hike through the forest to Mr. Tallmadge's log house, the Crow's Nest. Among the faculty of the Art institute who go to Saugatuck in the summer are Francis Chapin, landscape professor; Miss Marion Tufts, modeling; Douglas Wilson of the lithography department, and Don Loving, who teaches photography.

Give Cocktail Party Today for French Illustrator.

Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee and Mitchell Follansbee Jr. are entertaining at cocktails from 5 until 7 o'clock this afternoon for a distinguished Frenchman who has come to Chicago to spend February teaching a special class at the Chicago Professional School of Art. He is Pierre Brissaud, well known illustrator, and friend of young Mr. Follansbee. Mme. Brissaud is with her husband and also will be at the Follansbees' party.

M. Brissaud is a cousin of Bernard Boutet de Monvel, who has made many friends in Chicago. His father was Dr. Edouard Brissaud of Paris, one time professor of internal medicine in the medical school of the University of Paris and a prominent figure in neurological circles. M. Brissaud was a student with his cousin of the latter's father, the famed Maurice Boutet de Monvel, and is the younger brother of another capable artist, Jacques Brissaud.

The Brissauds live in Paris and New York.

Mrs. Arthur Cable is entertaining at tea this afternoon to discuss plans for a series of "Petits Lundis" to be held at the Goodman Theater studio, starting next Monday afternoon. Georges Cauuet, director of the International theater, is in charge of the programs. Mrs. Howard Linn, Seymour Blair, Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, and Mrs. Philip Maher are some of those who will take part in the series.

Mrs. John McAllister to Be Decorated Today.

At a meeting of the Evanston French club at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Bently Smith Handwork in Evanston, René Weiller, French consul general, will decorate Mrs. John McAllister with the Palmes Academiques, for her studies in the French language. Mrs. John Storrs will speak on "1938, 1939, 1940, Revisions, Previsions, Visions."

The Tavern club is holding its annual business meeting and members' dinner tonight at the club. New members of the board of governors will be elected. The dinner, a stag party, has been arranged in oyster bar style.

Barrett H. Clark, author and critic, will speak on "The American Theater Grows Up" at a meeting of the Chicago Drama league at 11 o'clock this morning at the Arts club. The open forum will be led by Harold A. Ehrensperger. Luncheon will be served.

A new Chicago literary magazine has made its bow, a slim little rag called Creative Writing. First article in the current issue is by Katherine Dunham, Chicago dancer, Les Pecheurs, one of a series of sketches titled Ecstases de Vauclin, which Miss Dunham has written about life in Martinique. But the special attempt of Creative Writing will be to portray life in Chicago, according to Editors and Publishers Robert and Margaret Williams.

"This magazine is not interested in any particular class angle; we simply wish to present things as they are. We will publish writing from any point of view as long as it is realistic and sincere," Mr. Williams adds.

BY CECIL SMITH.

Through three placid though not unamusing acts "Bachelor Born" pursues its wholesome, unexceptionable course at the Selwyn theater. At 11 o'clock the audience was persuaded without much trouble to go home, feeling that it had just about received its money's worth—no more, no less. The evening had been adequately spent, with no coarseness and no undue excitement, but with the decent diversion of not too many not too hearty laughs.

"Bachelor Born" is based on two well tried formulae of popular drama. Formula 1: Let loose some girls in a boys' boarding school and an endless chain of comic situations is automatically precipitated. Formula 2: Set up a simple conflict between cold, unbending authority and sympathetic human understanding, and the makings of tense drama are at hand.

Far be it from me to say that these formulae do not work in the case of "Bachelor Born," as they have so often in the past. When the three godchildren of Charles Donkin, a housemaster at Marbledown school in England, come to live with him, under the somewhat obtuse chaperonage of a guardian aunt, they set about with cold deliberation to upset the discipline of the school.

The success of all their enterprises so embarrasses poor old Mr. Donkin that he finds no alternative except to offer his resignation. Needless to say, the forces of justice avert the calamity of his departure from the school shortly before the final curtain. Meanwhile, in spite of Mr. Donkin's discomfiture, the breakdown of discipline provides for the audience many moments of clean, well bred hilarity.

The symbol of clammy authoritarianism is the headmaster of the school, the Rev. Edmund Ovington, whom the schoolboys dub "the Egg." One of the boys describes him as "a septic smear on the face of civilization," and this colorful characterization seems all too apt. He has not a single good quality. This headmaster is one of those rigidly drawn, lifeless stock characters of easy play construction, obviously fabricated to create an intense conflict, and therefore really capable of creating none.

If "Bachelor Born" moved at twice the pace it might be good fun, just as "Brother Rat," another schoolboy comedy, was. But the laughs—some of them quite good ones—are spaced too far apart.

"Bachelor Born" trembles on the brink of a useful immortality as a standard little theater piece. It lacks both the compactness of construction and the brightness of wit a successful professional comedy needs. Whittled down and redirected, it might make a likeable motion picture.

Young Jack Merivale [son of the famous Philip] and young Betty Moran [sister of Lois Moran of the movies] look like good future material. Edward Fielding as the mellow housemaster, Lester Lonergan III., and Stephen Ker-Appleby give some semblance of individuality to their parts.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

At Long Last

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 12.—At the end of this week your correspondent will go on his vacation. Whether or not he rates a vacation is beyond the point. Certain it is that you readers deserve a vacation because in the last seventeen months he has bombarded you with 520 consecutive columns from Hollywood, and that is about par for the glamor course. That means you've had to read more than 500,000 words, and the first half million, so they say, are the toughest. . . . In my absence movie stars and executives will conduct the column, and while generally the columns credited to celebrities are pretty sorry things because they don't write 'em, I think you'll like my substitute columnists, because if they wern't any good we thumbed them out.

Mrs. George Temple and Shirley.

The subcolumnists will be led off by Shirley Temple's mother, who has composed a letter that will be of interest to all the mothers of the country. Then there will be a column by Bette Davis, and I think that you'll be as startled as I was at the subject the star of "Jezebel" chose to write about. . . . From New York there is a column by Fredric March, and from Hollywood columns by Sam Goldwyn, Tyrone Power, and Jeanette MacDonald, diagnosing the industry from the viewpoint of a veteran producer and the king and queen of the movies.

Fred Astaire tops the second week's contributors, and supporting him will be the frank-spoken Walter Wanger, Groucho Marx, Marlene Dietrich, Loretta Young, John Garfield, and Sonja Henie. . . . The third week you'll have serious Paul Muni in a discussion of the dictator trend as the leadoff man. Literate Julian Johnson, story editor of 20 Century-Fox, tees off after Muni, with the most interesting advice ever given to the writers of the country who are hopeful of peddling a screen play. . . . Then come Joan Crawford, Director Clarence Brown, Clark Gable, Bob Hope, and Director Robert Z. Leonard. Director Brown names the ten greatest scenes he's ever seen in the movies and Director Bob Leonard goes back to the early days of Hollywood and peoples its streets with the pioneers of the industry. Gable tells of the days when he worked as an assistant stage manager in Akron, O.

The fourth week will be supplied by Myrna Loy, Spencer Tracy, Perc Westmore, Harry Brand, Norma Shearer, Robert Taylor, and Bing Crosby. The actors and actresses take you behind the scenes and show you what makes the wheels go round on a movie set. Brand, master of ballyhoo for Zanuck, recalls the stars that were created by ballyhoo and how they lived up to it or fell short of it. Perc Westmore takes the girls of the country into his makeup chambers and tells some secrets out of school.

From now until the end of the week your reporter will be busy typewriting the columns, because most of them are in longhand. Fred Astaire's presents the most difficult task. He wrote it on the train between Tucson, Ariz., and Los Angeles, and as a result, when he brought it to the house, there were close to twenty pieces of scrap paper which he had filled with his writing. It is one of the cleverest columns of them all, an analysis of the world in which we live in terms of rhythm and timing. Loretta Young's column is sort of a hail-and-farewell to the movies, as it will appear just about the time she goes off salary at 20th Century-Fox. Her reminiscences of her early days and the puzzlement of the present days are one of the finest things I've ever read. Fredric March takes you backstage at the Center theater, in New York, and gives you a closeup of the reactions of a movie star on the Broadway stage.

The movie stars all said the same thing, after writing a column: "How do you newspaper men write a column, day after day?" "I thought I'd lived an exciting life," commented Tyrone Power, "but it boiled down to one column, and I had to knock my brains out to fill a column. How do you guys do a column day in and day out and find something interesting enough to hold attention?" Myrna Loy's angle was more feminine. "I can conceive of your writing a column on the days when you're feeling chipper," she commented, "but it must be agonizing to write on the days that you don't feel well." . . . Each of them, handing in a column, regarded me with some amazement. "If you've written seven columns a week out of here for seventeen months," said Gable, "you rate a vacation."

So at the end of the present week your coast reporter shoves off for thirty days of loafing, and I'll go wherever the car takes me. Probably—but I don't want to let the local chamber of commerce to overhear this—the final destination will be Miami.

A Violinist Puts Zing Into Buzz of 'Bumble Bee'

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The connoisseurs who were scattered through a big auditoriumful of people yesterday nodded brightly to one another when Nathan Milstein buzzed into his "Flight of the Bumble Bee." Under the hands of this swarthy, inscrutable looking young Russian violinist, the piece seemed to have more zing than ever before. Its buzzes were faster and lower—so realistic, in fact, that occupants of the front rows might have been pardoned had they leapt to safety.

This happened in the encore group that closed the recital program. Just previously Mr. Milstein had given a stunning demonstration of what superlative fiddling can do to a dreadfully worn piece of music. He took the old D major concerto of Paganini and made his audience believe for the moment that it is one of the most significant works of the last two centuries.

There is no such thing as a trite musical phrase when that phrase is delivered with such care and fervor. Display passages become something more than display passages when a performer not only negotiates their difficulties safely but manages to fill them as well with a highly personalized something that might almost pass for passion. Mr. Milstein used his own cadenza, an episode rich in great resonant bits of double stopping and brilliantly colored figures of other sorts.

The earlier part of the afternoon was given over to Vivaldi, Bach, and Beethoven. Artur Balsam provided piano parts.

With Izler Solomon sick, Albert Goldberg took over the conductorship of the Illinois Symphony orchestra for yesterday's Great Northern theater concert. He gave Chicago its first performance of Benjamin Britten's "Soirées Musicales" and its millionth of Tschaikowsky's Fifth symphony.

The first piece represents a young Englishman's successful attempt to clothe some unknown Rossini pieces in acceptable orchestral dress. The suite has a light hearted graciousness about it. Mr. Goldberg made its dance rhythms gay and infectious. His sense of orchestral color helped the music to sound persuasive.

Eugenia Buxton, Memphis pianist who has many appearances to her credit both in this country and abroad, played a recital in Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon. Her modern group—Tcherepnine, Scriabine, Labunski, Griffes, and Poulenc—profited by clever and piquant rhythmic effects, by the intelligence and imagination which went into the search for color effects, and by a finger agility of a high order.

A Stranger in the Dark

By Frank R. Adams

(Copyright: 1939: By Frank R. Adams.)

SYNOPSIS.

The hero, pursued by Detective Mike Clancy, is stopped in a Chicago railway depot by a young man, apparently dying, who gives him his wallet and baggage check to get him his medicine. He gets the sick man's bag, then, seeing the man being carried away on a stretcher, he uses the man's ticket, and is on his way to Clovis, N. M., as John Bowman—an innocent fugitive, having taken the blame for missing bank funds to save his father. Before reaching Clovis he confesses his identity to Sheriff Tom Johnson, who boards the train to welcome John Bowman, whose father, Pete Bowman, is dying and longs to see the son separated from him by divorce since babyhood. The sheriff persuades him to take on the rôle. John's sister, Mary, and her fiancé, Charles Ferdinand, manager of her father's ranch, meet him and fly him to the ranch in Charles' plane. Mrs. Lodge, wife of Pete's physician and guest, is with them. Our hero falls instantly in love with Mary and dislikes Charles, a handsome show-off, who is the pet of Pete's sister, Matilda, who had loved Charles' father. The hero meets paralyzed old Pete Bowman, kept a virtual prisoner by Matilda. Pete asks him to stay and help Mary, and gives him his guns. Charles is carrying on an affair with Mrs. Lodge and even Dr. Lodge knows about it. Charles and Mary are married. Detective Clancy appears after the wedding, just as word comes that old Pete has died. That night Mrs. Lodge commits suicide and Mary refuses to go to her new home with Charles. Clancy, sleeping with "John," is stabbed—evidently "John" was the intended victim. Before his death Pete had "John" destroy a new will leaving everything to Mary.

INSTALMENT XXXI.

LEAVETAKING.

Charles turned a switch on a box that might have been a radio—if you didn't know different.

"Judge Robinson has to get back tonight," Charles explained soothingly to Aunt Matilda. "And, besides, John is going away too."

That was the first Mary had heard of my imminent departure. "Not really, John." She looked as if terror stricken by the thought of my leaving.

"Yes, Mary, a hurried trip to Chicago."

It was apparently news to Aunt Matilda, too. "Going away, nephew?" she asked, addressing me for almost the first time since the day before.

Charles answered for me. "Yes, Aunt Matilda. John and his detective have business in Chicago."

"O, that mysterious detective, I see." She subsided, apparently satisfied either by what Charles said or by the accompanying look of warning which he gave her.

The judge cleared his throat. "I have here the will of which I have spoken. As I have not been informed of any more recent testament I presume this one still stands."

Aunt Matilda was about to speak, I thought, but Charles stopped her with his hand on her arm and shook his head definitly. I was surprised that he was able to control her in that particular matter—she had made such a fuss the day before at discovering that the holograph will was missing. It made me wonder uneasily what was up.

Judge Robinson read the will. It was quite a lengthy scroll, all cluttered up with a lot of the good old fashioned legal language which lawyers used to put into any and all documents which passed through their hands.

The gist of it was as follows:

To his sister, Matilda Bowman, Peter Bowman bequeathed $100,000 in cash, together with the income for life from certain oil lands in Texas, which were being operated under a long lease by the Texas corporation.

To his daughter, Mary, he bequeathed a like sum in cash and the income from several mines in San Juan county, N. M.

Then followed a number of smaller bequests to old friends and servants. I was glad to note that Tom Johnson came in for a legacy which should make his declining years secure. H'Wang, the cook, was provided with enough to set him up in the restaurant business in San Francisco, which was apparently his ambition.

After that this finish:

"All the balance of my estate, including the Bowman ranch"—then followed a legal description—"together with all improvements thereon, all live stock, accounts in banks and trust companies, all stocks and bonds, all oil lands in this and other states not specifically excepted above, all mines, whether leased or operated by Bowman Mines, Inc., as above mentioned, and all other property whatsoever, both real and personal, I herewith bequeath to my son, John Bowman, provided he is living at the time of my decease.

"Should he be dead, or should he die subsequently without issue, it is the intent of this testament that the bulk of my estate, herein willed to him, shall go to my daughter, Mary, or her heirs."

The balance of the document consisted of formal concluding paragraphs, the attested signatures of witnesses, date and place of execution, and, finally, the signature of Peter Bowman himself.

In other words, John Bowman was the principal heir to an estate probably worth well up into the millions.

But I was not John Bowman!

Every one present thought I was, however, and I noticed a marked deference on the part of Judge Robinson as he addressed me. "I will file this will for probate, Mr. Bowman, and in the meantime will arrange for the banks to honor your signature for all amounts necessary for the conduct of your affairs." He got up. "I think, friends, that is all."

Still no objection from Aunt Matilda. Her silence struck me as odd and ominous. Everything that she had schemed for was wiped out by that document in the judge's briefcase. And yet she made no outcry.

The judge was gone. We four stood in awkward silence.

Mary, who understood less about it than any one, finally broke it. "Our house on the hill—Charles and mine," she began, troubled.

"Is yours by deed executed before your father's death," I reassured her. "Nothing will be changed, Mary, except that your father is gone. I shall not live at the ranch. You and Charles will carry on exactly as you planned. It really belongs to you, anyway, and I shall make some provision to that effect, even if I live."

It seemed like a silly speech. I was actually, in my heart, talking for the real John Bowman, who, if he was not already dead, soon would be—at least, in my opinion.

"I wasn't thinking of that." Mary was close to tears. "I don't want any of us to leave here—not you, now——"

"I should not be happy here," I interrupted, and that was true—I couldn't live there under the circumstances. I might never be happy again, anywhere. "But we'll talk about that later." To Charles, I said, "When will you be ready to hop off for Kansas City?"

"In about thirty minutes," he replied.

"I'm going with you that far," declared Mary.

"No," said Charles, positively. "Not this time, darling. I want you to be waiting for me in the new house when I return."

That was a reasonable request from a bridegroom, and Mary could, apparently, think of no reason for denying it.

"Then I'll see you off at the landing field," she compromised. "I can't say good-by now."

We were scarcely out of the room when I heard the dictograph start up. "I'll leave the case entirely in your hands, sherif. Good-by."

"Good-by, Clancy."

I chuckled to myself. All Aunt Matilda had heard was the signing off. I think it pleased me quite as much as it must have annoyed her.

But when I entered my room the first thing I did was to look for the microphone. It was just in back of the head of the bed.

"Well, I'm damned," declared Clancy as I ripped it out. "Has that thing been there all the time? I wonder what me and the sherif said."

I told him not to worry because it had been turned off at the receiving end.

"He thinks you're a fine man, my lad—that sherif. I didn't tell him different." He paused. "I wish I was wrong myself."

"Thanks, Clancy." Then I changed the subject. "Think you can travel, now?"

"Sure. You anxious to get to jail?"

"Yes. Let me look at your bandages first."

I made a sling for his wounded arm and packed his bag.

I took a few things from John Bowman's suitcase in my pockets. The case itself didn't belong to me and I didn't know how I could manage to return it. I was taking myself away from Bowman ranch, forever, all but my heart, which I suspected would never leave it.

"Come on, Clancy. Your prisoner is ready."

"A hell of a prisoner you are when I can't put on my pants without you helpin' me."

Crackers used to be just crackers. They came in few varieties. There were big square ones, long salted ones, grahams and tiny oyster crackers. And that's about all.

But stop at the cracker counters of some of our finest stores today, and what do you find? A bewildering array, to be sure! There are the old ones and dozens of new ones—large, small, round, square, diamond shaped, hexagonal crackers, and hollowed shapes for canape spreads. There are cheese flavored crackers, rich, buttery ones; whole wheat, oatmeal, shredded salted or unsalted wafers, rye crisps, pretzel crackers [taste like pretzels, but are small, round and flat], tomato wafers, crackers flavored with celery seed or caraway, and many, many, more.

There is variation in texture, too, from the hard crackers you have to gnaw, through degrees of crispness to the rich butter crackers which almost melt on the tongue.

It's fun to buy two, three, or four kinds at once and find new uses for them in the menu. Here's a type of cracker which harmonizes splendidly with the flavor of tomato soup. This other belongs with a crisp vegetable salad. A third is particularly good with cheese, and a fourth is wonderful for nibbling between meals!

Any cheese tray or canape service requires the presence of at least three kinds of crackers. There are cocktail cracker assortments to be bought in one package, or one may buy a package each of several kinds. Hostesses haven't worried a great deal lately about what spreads to use for canapes, and how to shape them. So many different flavors have been provided in crackers and so many different shapes that attention has been switched from spread to foundation.

If you haven't already discovered these crackers, ask about them next time you are in a store which carries food specialties: A whole grain, natural brown rice wafer; Martini crackers which are sprinkled with paprika; buffet wafers, almost paper thin, brown on one side, white on the other; an assortment of crackers with different kinds of cheese flavoring; the cold water crackers you split, toast, and serve with clam chowder; arrowroot-egg-white cocktail crackers, and the wafers flavored with caraway or celery seeds.

Some of these flavored crackers work out well in scalloped dishes. But, for the most part, I think, they should be confined to service which shows off their attractive shapes and permits their flavor to stand on its own merits.

Beauty of Voice Essential in the Conquest of Glamor

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"Other things being equal, the salesman with the best voice makes the most sales. The school teacher with the best voice has the best chance of getting the position as well as of successfully filling it; the teacher who loses her voice loses her position, and this is not a rare misfortune. Obviously the vocalist, actor, lecturer, and lawyer need good voices. Indeed, there are few occupations in which a good clear way of speaking is not an asset."

The above is an excerpt from an article on voice by Chevalier Jackson in a current issue of Hygeia.

Haven't you, too, noticed how frequently the theme of better voice and speech production is taken up in newspapers and periodicals right now? Indicating what? Indicating the importance of that pleasing quality of tone and nice assembling of words that, along with a pleasant smile and a pleasing manner, get you places these highly competitive days.

Let's apply these three features of social and business success to beauty success. Aren't they of identical importance to distinction in the field of glamor? The smile we do not even need to dwell upon, since you know as well as anybody what a sure-fire rejuvenator [face-lifter] a smile is.

Nor need we go into a discussion on the beauty appeal of a pleasing manner. You never, never met a woman with an unpleasant manner, although she might be the clothes horse de luxe, the perfect ad for beauty salon mechanics, but she was dismissed as unattractive.

The voice? Well, men have declared women with dumpy figures, crooked features, beauties because of a voice of magic tone.

Saugatuck Art School Reunion to Be Big Party

winter, the Earl G. Krumrines at the last minute changed their plans and returned to the Breakers in Palm Beach. They expect several Chicago guests during the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan C. Spalding left last Friday for Boca Grande, Fla. They will be away until after Easter.

Mrs. Austin H. Niblack is spending the balance of the winter in Aiken, S. C. She will return late in April.

Mrs. Alan C. Dixon arrived at home Friday from a vacation in Tucson, Ariz.

Mrs. Warren M. Salisbury is at Daytona Beach, Fla., until the end of March.

Mrs. Kay Wood and her brother, Roy Ripple, are in Key West until April.

Mrs. Lon C. Hill Jr. has joined Mr. Hill at their Texas ranch to be away until March 1.

Mrs. Brewster Gives Lecture In Honolulu.

From Honolulu has come news of a lecture Mrs. Walter S. Brewster gave on flower arrangements. She showed slides of Lake Forest gardens, familiar already to some of the islanders who travel widely and who are as widely entertained. Mr. and Mrs. Brewster have taken the house which belonged to Mrs. Walter Dillingham's mother, the late Mrs. Charles Adams, for the winter. Mrs. Brewster soon is to lecture on "Modern Art" at the Honolulu Academy of Art.

Mr. and Mrs. Atherton Richards [Helen Hughes Dulany] will be passing through Chicago about Friday on their way from Honolulu to New York. Russell Kelley is holidaying at Honolulu, where the Chauncey McCormicks are expected next week. The William P. Popes and their boys, Robert and Billy, are spending the winter in the Hawaiian Islands. The Champ Carrys, who left last week for California, also are Honolulu bound.

Harris School Dance Chaperones Named.

The William W. Renshaws, the George B. Fosters, Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Felz, the Harry T. Huffs, and Mrs. Florence Bourke Ellis are to act as chaperones at a dance the boys of the Harris upper school are giving on Saturday night at the Fortnightly school.

The lower school boys also are busy with plans this week, for they are to put on their annual gym show Friday night at the Lawson Y. M. C. A. Upper class boys will play a basketball game that night against Wheaton academy. Proceeds from the gym show will go into the school's charity fund.

Crochet Hook Is One Way to Help Us Acquire Halo

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

As long as women remain such angelic looking creatures we will wear halos. Crocheting one's own halo means that there may be one for every change of wardrobe. This new crocheted halo is made of single crochet with a long loop which is a simple matter to accomplish. Across the back is a narrow band of single crochet without loops to hold the halo securely. A couple of hours will create one of these glamorous head adornments.

For instructions for crocheting the loop halo, No. X-198, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

TODAY'S BROADCASTS FROM CHICAGO STATIONS

Today's Features

ON W-G-N.

Henry Weber's Pageant of Melody, usually presented at 9:30 p. m., will be moved up to 8:45 for tonight only to make room for a special broadcast of the National Republican club Lincoln day dinner.

Gov. Julius P. Heil.

Attilio Baggiore, W-G-N's noted tenor, will be featured on this evening's concert. He will sing two solo numbers, "A Toi," by Henri Bemberg, and Meyerbeer's "O Paradiso." With the octet he will sing "Kashmiri Song," by Amy Woodford Finden. The octet will sing Tschaikowsky's "Dance Arabe," "Old Creole Days," and "Mardi Gras" from Ferde Grofe's Mississippi Suite. The program will be presented from W-G-N's main audience studio.

The broadcast of the Lincoln day dinner from the grand ballroom of the Hotel Waldorf Astoria in New York will be heard on W-G-N and the Mutual network at 9:30 p. m. Among those to be heard during Mutual's broadcast from the banquet are Governors Frank D. Fitzgerald of Michigan and Julius P. Heil of Wisconsin. Dr. J. R. Sizoo, well known Lincoln historian, and John Carter, radio and stage singing star, also will be heard. C. Wayland Brooks of Chicago will be toastmaster.

At 10:15 p. m. Congressman Martin F. Smith, speaking from Washington, D. C., will deliver an address entitled "New Frontiers."

Smart Frock for the Home

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOUSE FROCK.

Your wardrobe for the home should be every bit as complete and smart as the one you have for social occasions. Your home is your castle, you know, and you should look the part of a charming châtelaine. The house frock pattern offered for your approval today has, we think, something distinctive about it that most such dresses lack. It is decidedly feminine and avoids drabness. The V neckline may be simply edged or may have a rather wide and beruffled rever collarline. The choice depends upon your silhouette and just how much trimming you should have around the throat.

The sleeves are cut in one with the shoulderline and are full and comfortable. The waistline is cut on corselet lines, swathed and graceful. The flared and shirred skirt is flattering and comfortable to wear, and you may have pockets in any number of styles, two versions of which are illustrated.

All the inexpensive washable fabrics are perfect selections for this practical dress.

Style No. 3396 is designed for sizes 16, 18, and 20, and 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material with ¼ yard of 18 inch contrasting and 2 yards of braid for the collarless version.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

The sprightly spring edition of the Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 15 cents the copy, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY.

The Housewife

If you've never experimented with that handy little help, double adhesive, you'll be amazed to see how many things it can do around the house. It can be used instead of tacks, for example, when you're putting up new shelf edging. One side of it adheres to the shelf and the other to the edging you are applying.

It's invaluable in keeping a loose inner sole in place in your shoe. Stick any lightweight object you wish to the wall with it, too. And use it if you make your own lamp shades. In artcraft work it has many uses.

This tape costs only a few cents a roll and is sold in the housewares sections of most of the stores.

EDITH WEIGLE.

Girl Unwise in Avoiding Her Beau's Family

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

The boy friend wants Sana to go with him to his home on Sunday nights as there is always a crowd there and the boy's parents welcome his young friends. They are a musical family. Each member plays some instrument or sings. The boy loves these evenings at his home. He cannot understand why Sana objects to joining the crowd and the fun. There is nothing doing at Sana's house, as the boy expresses it. You just sit, listen to the radio, and chat. Sana's mother and father do not put in an appearance at all. They say it is Sana's night and she has the run of the home that evening.

Sana has a quaint prejudice about going to her beau's house. She says it is bad luck when a girl gets to know her beau's family too well. They pick her to pieces and do everything possible to separate a couple.

Maybe some families do, Sana. But we doubt very much if the type of family mentioned would. Besides, a young woman can ride down family prejudices pretty well if her conduct is such as to win them. Setting out with a prejudice against them, believing they are unlucky to to know, naturally would bestir animosity on their part.

Furthermore, the type of boy whose family is so close to him would seek their approval of his sweetheart.

The main point, however, Sana, is that you cannot absorb the complete and entire life of a young man before marriage. You can't alienate him from his family. Nor can it be done after marriage without a good deal of unhappiness on both sides. In other words, if you like the boy and hope that some day you two will marry, we think you ought to get in training now with his family. They sound like thoroughly nice people and worth cultivating. If you remain aloof, though your reasons are fear of what they'll think of you, they will think you are high-hat or spoiled or something that you may not be.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

If bridge were played like chess, with frequent intervals of an hour between plays, mistakes rarely would occur. Given sufficient time, almost any player can figure out the winning line. Unfortunately, however, it would be a bit wearing on our partners and opponents if we were to "huddle" ten or twelve times in a given deal. Hence we usually must form our plan with no more than one protracted thought session. This being so, it becomes vital for the declarer or defender [as the case may be] to ferret out the crucial phase of the play and to devote his attention to that one point. Let us apply this theory to a specific case.

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
Rubber bridge.

	NORTH ♠ 6 5 ♥ A 3 2 ♦ K 6 ♣ A Q 10 9 4 2
WEST ♠ A J 10 9 8 ♥ 9 7 5 ♦ Q 10 5 3 ♣ 5		EAST ♠ 4 3 2 ♥ Q J 10 ♦ J 8 7 ♣ J 8 7 6
	SOUTH ♠ K Q 7 ♥ K 8 6 4 ♦ A 9 4 2 ♣ K 3

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opens the jack of spades, and now let us slip quietly, unobtrusively, into the declarer's position. Before we play to even the first trick, let us gauge our resources and, in case it is necessary, figure out ways and means of protecting them. We see, of course, that we have only two sure diamond tricks, two hearts, and one spade. Hence the bulk of our tricks, if we are to fulfill our contract, must come from the club suit. The prospect is excellent that we will be able to run all six of dummy's clubs with the solidifying value of our own king. But it would be highly superficial reasoning on our part to assume that merely because we have eight clubs in the combined hands the suit must break, and that we will be able to run it without loss. We have played hundreds of hands in which such a suit was stopped by an opponent who held four cards to the jack. So let us make a second and more thorough appraisal of the situation.

Now we find that we do not actually need six club tricks. We need only five to round out the desired total of nine tricks. This is a vital observation because it immediately suggests that there may be some method by which we can insure those five needed club tricks. Remember, we cannot afford to lose the lead at any stage to East because, by the time that occurs we will have left only one spade honor and a lead through it to West's suit probably will cook our goose. Well, if that is the only danger, surely we can guard against it! We will simply make extraordinary efforts to keep East off the lead, whether or not he holds the jack of clubs with three guards. Now that we have located the danger and found a way to guard against it, everything is clear sailing. We take the first trick, cross to the heart ace or the diamond king [preferably the former], and lead the ten of clubs from dummy. East, of course, is not accommodating enough to cover, but that does not bother us. We simply duck, playing the three from our own hand. Mind you, we do not know that East has the club jack with three others, nor that he has the jack at all, but we are perfectly willing to make a present of this trick to West. The latter cannot attack our guarded spade honor, and we, of course, have control of the other three suits. As it happens, the club ten holds the trick and, West having followed suit, we now are assured of all six clubs.

Our main cause of relief is that we have foreseen and provided against the possibility that West could have stopped the club suit if we had played it "normally"—laying down the king and then crossing to dummy.

Tomorrow's Hand

North, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	NORTH ♠ 4 3 2 ♥ A K Q 3 ♦ A K 6 2 ♣ 6 5
WEST ♠ 8 6 ♥ J 9 8 7 6 ♦ Q J 10 ♣ J 9 3		EAST ♠ K Q J 10 9 ♥ 5 4 ♦ 9 8 7 5 ♣ K 7
	SOUTH ♠ A 7 5 ♥ 10 2 ♦ 4 3 ♣ A Q 10 4 3 2

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's column.

INDIANA TAKES ON CHICAGO IN DRIVE FOR TITLE

Purdue, Minnesota Quintets Clash.

Tonight's Games

Illinois at Michigan.
Wisconsin at Northwestern.
Purdue at Minnesota.
Indiana at Chicago.
Notre Dame at Syracuse.
Illinois Wesleyan at DePaul.
Marquette at Michigan State.
George Washington at Loyola.

Along about this time every winter the basketball might of the state of Indiana begins to make itself felt in the Western conference title race. Now, with the annual marathon approximately half gone, Indiana university, which has played half of its twelve scheduled games, is making the pace, and Purdue, which has seven conference dates left, has moved into fifth place, after a slow start.

Tonight the Hoosiers expect to improve their position with a victory over Chicago's Maroons on the Midway. Chicago, which has given most of its conference opponents to date enough opposition to make each game interesting, has lacked that extra punch which marks the difference between victory and defeat. Consequently it is last in the conference. Indiana showed the power which has made it an outstanding contender for the title Saturday night by crushing Iowa, 50 to 39.

Purdue Picks Up Speed.

Purdue, defending the title it won last year, apparently has overcome the handicap of green material and has made a steady climb up the ladder in recent weeks. The Boilermakers face a stouter challenge tonight than does Indiana. They must battle Minnesota, erstwhile conference leader, on the Gophers' floor. Purdue defeated a crippled Illinois quintet Saturday night, 34 to 30.

The Illini, with Bill Hapac and Pick Dehner, high scoring forward and center, respectively, again in uniform, will play at Michigan tonight. Michigan conquered Michigan State in a nonconference battle Saturday, 30 to 25.

Northwestern, which gained a .500 rating by beating Chicago Saturday night, 34 to 31, will meet Wisconsin in Patten gymnasium tonight in its seventh game of the conference season. Wisconsin was idle Saturday.

Notre Dame, which scored a 34 to 30 victory over Long Island university in Madison Square Garden Saturday, will resume its tour of the east tonight with a game against Syracuse university in Syracuse.

Geo. Washington Plays Loyola.

Loyola university's undefeated team will meet one of its toughest opponents of the season tonight when it opposes George Washington university in the Loyola gymnasium.

It will be the fifth and rubber game between the two rivals. First meeting two years ago, Loyola won a 36-34 contest at Washington. Last season Loyola again triumphed 47-45 in three overtimes at Loyola, but was forced to take two defeats at Washington, 44-39 and 48-33.

The Colonials this season have defeated Colgate, Washington and Lee, Ohio, Toledo, and Western Reserve among others, and have lost to Ohio State and Army.

Loyola is defending a perfect seasonal record of sixteen consecutive victories and the home mark of twenty-three victories in a row.

Tonight's game is Loyola's last one at home until the season finale with the University of Toledo five on March 10.

Wesleyan at De Paul.

The twice postponed De Paul university-Illinois Wesleyan basketball game will be played tonight in the De Paul University gymnasium, 2219 Sheffield avenue.

Last season De Paul won both games of the home and home series, the first on the home court by a top-heavy score and the second in Bloomington by a two point margin.

The game tonight will be the first of three games for the Demons this week. On Friday they play South Dakota in Vermillion, and Creighton in Omaha the following night.

CANADIAN HOCKY TEAM BEATS U. S. FOR WORLD TITLE

BASEL, Switzerland, Feb. 12.—(AP)—A burst of scoring in the first period that netted three goals in the eighth minute swept the Canadian sextet to a 4 to 0 victory over the American team in the final game of the world amateur hocky tournament today.

Penoit of the Trail Smoke Eaters, the Canadian team, broke through to score the first two goals for the new champions and Dame scored the third a few seconds later. Maurice completed the rout by netting the puck in the t elfth minute of the second period.

It was the third straight title for Canada. The Kimberley Dynamiters won the title in 1937.

RIGGS DEFEATS FROEHLING FOR WESTERN TITLE

Bobby Riggs of the Chicago Town and Tennis club yesterday added the western indoor singles title to his list of championships.

In the final in the 168th Engineers armory, Riggs triumphed over Frank Froehling of Northwestern university, 13-11, 6-3, 7-5. Helen Fulton of Indian Hill won the women's singles title by defeating Louise Hofmeister of River Forest, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

Froehling teamed with Marvin Wachman of Northwestern to defeat Riggs and Seymour Greenberg of Northwestern in the men's doubles final. The scores were 6-8, 11-9, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4.

REIDER ANDERSEN LEAPS 194, 205 FT. TO WIN SKI MEET

Ironwood, Mich., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Reider Andersen of Norway made jumps of 194 and 205 feet to take first place today in class A of the international games ski tryouts sponsored by the Central Ski association.

Roy Laramie of Coleraine, Minn., made the longest jump, 207 feet, but fell. John Holt of Duluth took class B, Ellsworth Mitchell of Ishpeming, Mich., class C, and Guttorm Paulson of the Norge club, Chicago, the senior class.

The meet on Wolverine hill, conducted by the Gogebic Range Ski club, drew 4,500 spectators. Leaders will compete in the Olympic final trials next Sunday in Berlin, N. H.

LAMBERT IS VICTOR.

Salisbury Mills, N. Y., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Raymond Lambert, 19, of Lebanon, N. H., won the New York state ski jumping championship today of Ski Hill club. Lambert soared for two of the longest jumps of the day, 132 and 135 feet, scoring 223.5 points. Warren Chivers, former national cross-country and jumping champion and Dartmouth captain, placed second.

MISS FISK WINS.

Hanover, N. H., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Miss Margarita Fisk, representing the Woodstock ski club, won the women's eastern slalom championship this afternoon over the Oak Hill course. Miss Fisk was four full seconds faster than the second place winner, Miss Frances Porges, representing the Smith college Outing club.

The Boys Who Ride in Circles Start Another Six Day Race

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

At 9 o'clock last evening Miss Dixie Dunbar, the stage and screen beauty, grasped a derringer firmly in both hands and fired it into the air of the Chicago Stadium, thus opening the forty-first international Chicago six day bicycle race. Miss Dunbar's action set at rest any fears that Tony Galento, the Newark beer dispenser, might take over the duties of starter.

Twelve teams began the whirl to nowhere, which will be concluded no earlier than midnight Saturday. A crowd of 10,000 was given an appetizer for the main event last night by an hour of riding among local amateurs. If their deportment is any augury of what will transpire among the professional artists this week there will be a special order for arnica and tape put in shortly, for several of the simon pures spent most of the hour untangling themselves from their wheels and removing splinters from their anatomies.

Vopel Is Rugged.

The mention of arnica, bandages, etc., brings up a young man from Dortmund, Germany, who goes beyond such trivial treatment. He is Heinz Vopel, who two weeks ago last night suffered a fractured left wrist in the first four hours of the Cleveland race. He appeared to be out of commission for some time.

Heinz thought otherwise, however, and was at the post with his partner, Cecil Yates, the speedy South Chicago Irishman, when last night's marathon began. A fancy lether brace encased the Vopel left wrist, but the Vopel legs were functioning as of old, and with the highly valuable cooperation of Master Yates, Heinz took over the lead in the race at midnight.

Heinz was making his Chicago debut as a loner, sans the teamwork of his home town friend and partner, Gustav Kilian. They had won twenty of twenty-two races they had entered as a team in North America before they were broken up.

Tie for Second.

Herr Kilian was not exactly suffering from the separation either. With Bobby Thomas, the Kenosha youth who helped him win the recent Buffalo race, Gus was tied for second place as the entertainment spun through the morning hours with four other teams, the Pedens, Rodman-O'Brien, Yaccino-Wissel, and Rebolli-De Bacco.

The race began with a paucity of incident, the first spill being enacted by young Danny Esposito, the Newark boy who is making his debut as a six day rider in this event. Daniel was bound for a neat header, but skipped out of it as he wound up standing at the northeast bend of the track at 9:15 o'clock.

Freddie Ottevaere and Charley Shipman, the Detroit-Brooklyn team, stole the first lap of the thirty-one pilfered in the first hour of riding. They were presently joined by a half dozen others and Espositor's partner, Ferdinando Grillo of Italy, followed his example by going into a jackknife off of his steed at the west end of the house.

The result of the sprints:

Vines Wins Tennis Match; Budge Leads Series, 17-10

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Playing at the peak of his game, Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena defeated J. Donald Budge, 6-2, 6-8, 7-5, 6-2, in a continuation of their cross-country professional tennis tour here this afternoon. Nine thousand fans, huddled under wraps in the Memorial coliseum, saw Vines shave Budge's lead in the series to 17 to 10.

GOLDEN GLOVERS RENEW WAR FOR PLACE IN FINALS

Twenty Centers to Name Their Champions.

Tonight's Schedule

Centralia, Ill., Sentinel preliminaries.
Dayton, O., News finals.
Detroit, Mich., Free Press preliminaries.
Gary, Ind., Post-Tribune preliminaries.
Green Bay, Wis., Press-Gazette preliminaries.
Joliet, Ill., Spectator preliminaries.
Kenosha, Wis., News finals.
Milwaukee, Wis., Journal preliminaries.
Minneapolis, Minn., Star preliminaries.
Quincy, Ill., Herald-Whig preliminaries.
St. Louis, Mo., Globe-Democrat preliminaries.

The best boxers in twenty Golden Gloves centers, will be named this week in a series of amateur bouts which offer the nation's fight fans the best entertainment in the sport. Chicago will select two more groups of sectional champions for the Tournament of Champions in the stadium Feb. 27, 28 and March 1 when finals are held in the south side tournament in White City Thursday and on the northwest side in Marigold Gardens Friday.

Eighteen out of town centers will determine their candidates for honors in the Tournament of Champions, in which 400 compete. Last week Chicago named its west side team. After this week's fighting only the north section champions remain to be picked. Fighting opens on the north side in Loyola gymnasium Feb. 20. Bouts on the south side will reopen tomorrow and northwest side battlers get their first taste of action Wednesday.

Two Rings Set Up.

So heavy is the entry list for the bouts in Marigold Gardens that two rings will be used. Approximately seventy-five fights will be held each night in this section. In White City, where preliminary bouts were held three nights last week, only one ring will be used. Approximately thirty bouts will be offered fans each night.

Chicago's sectional Golden Gloves winners once again face a gigantic task in repelling invading fighters in their quest for a diamond studded Golden Glove, the greatest honor that can come to an amateur boxer. Such strong centers as Cleveland, Detroit, Omaha and St. Louis in other years have figured prominently in the Tournament of Champions. This year is no exception regarding the quality of opposition Chicago boys must meet.

Dayton, Kenosha Finals.

Two out of town tournaments will pick their champions tonight. These meets are sponsored by the Dayton, O., News and the Kenosha, Wis., News.

Tomorrow night two Indiana centers will name their champions. These boxers will come from the tournaments sponsored by the Fort Wayne Journal Gazette and the Muncie, Ind., Star. Cedar Rapids, Ia., Quincy, Ill., Grand Rapids, Mich., Minneapolis, Nashville, Rockford, Ill., Davenport, Ia., Evansville, Ind., Indianapolis, St. Louis, and Fort Smith, Ark., are the other cities which will pick their champions this week.

A Long Road to Finals.

The Tournament of Champions leads to the finals in the Stadium March 10. The winning boxers on that night become members of the Chicago team which battles New York on March 29. The intercity bouts, the twelfth of a series this year, will be held in the Stadium. Last year Chicago for the first time upset tradition by defeating New York in New York. The all-time score in the intercity series is six for Chicago, three for New York, and two ties.

GIVES TRIBUNE CONTEST FIRST PICK OF PLAYERS

Trades Mark Final Day of Meeting.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The National Football league acted yesterday to assure the continued preëminence of the Chicago All-Star game between the league champions and the College All-Americans by ordering its president, Joseph F. Carr, to enter into a five year contract with the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., sponsor of the game.

Under terms of the contract THE TRIBUNE is given first call on all graduating college players signed by National league teams or named on the teams' selective lists. No National league team will be permitted to play in an All-Star game in which the college roster contains a player withheld from the Chicago game.

Carr Explains His Stand.

"We feel," said President Carr, "that we owe THE TRIBUNE and Arch Ward, originator of the All-Star idea, whatever help we can give them to make the Chicago game football's outstanding contest. THE TRIBUNE pioneered the game, developed it into one of the major events on America's athletic calendar and, by reason of its priority in the field, it is deserving of our preference in all matters pertaining to such contests. We are heartily in favor of all-star games and will do what we can to help improve all of them, but in all cases where there is a conflict with the Chicago game, we will lend our support to THE TRIBUNE."

The league took the action, Carr explained, to prevent controversies over territorial rights and to insure the presence of the nation's outstanding stars in the Chicago game. The league already has a rule which makes it mandatory for its champion to open its season with the Chicago All-Star game.

To Reward Valuable Player.

Adoption of the All-Star resolution concluded the four day executive session in the Congress hotel, at which the owners also voted to establish an annual award for the most valuable National league player, and turned future schedules over to the president. Carr was authorized to designate a suitable trophy for the most valuable player, who is to be selected by the Professional Football Writers' Association of America.

After an all day schedule-making session, which lasted until early yesterday morning, the owners agreed that, beginning in 1940, the league will play a schedule drawn up by the president. This will eliminate one of the most troublesome problems facing the annual executive meeting.

Bears to Open Sept. 15.

Chicago's 1939 season will open Friday, Sept. 15, with a night game in Soldiers' field between Cleveland and the Bears. Its second will be the Cardinals' home opener against Detroit in a night game in Soldiers' field on Oct. 1. The first of the two games between the Bears and Cardinals will open the Wrigley field season on Oct. 15. The Bears and Cardinals will close their seasons against each other on Nov. 26. The annual game for the championship will be played on Dec. 10 in the home field of the western division winner.

Release of the schedules was held in abeyance pending ratification of the executive committee, but it was learned that one of its unusual features will be the absence of a Bear-Lion game in Detroit on Thanksgiving morning. It will be the first time in five years that these two rivals have not met on Thanksgiving.

Officials Must Pass Tests.

Other last minute business included several trades and the passing of a resolution on the officiating problem. It was decided to certify all officials, put them through a physical examination, a test of the rules, and a course of instruction at a summer meeting. The first meeting of this type will be held in Pittsburgh in July. The coach of every club and the rules committee are to attend the meeting and it is to remain in ses-

Boston, Mass., Feb. 12.—(AP)—The New York Rangers tonight regained some of the ground they have lost to the Boston Bruins in the National Hocky league race by defeating the leaders, 3 to 2, before 16,500 spectators.

The Bruins, trailing by three goals late in the third period, scored twice in the last four minutes.

Al Shibicky and the Colville brothers, Mac and Neil, played leading parts in the triumph. Shibicky scored in the second and third periods and the Colvilles teamed for the third Ranger goal, Neil counting on Mac's assist.

The Bruins managed to catch the Rangers short-handed with four minutes to go and Milt Schmidt and Woody Dumart scored. Lineups:

SABIN DEFEATS MULLOY TO WIN FLORIDA TITLE

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Wayne Sabin of Portland, Ore., today defeated Gardnar Mulloy of Miami in the finals of the Everglades club tennis tournament.

Sabin won by an 8-6, 6-2, 6-4 score. He received a good workout from Mulloy, but his drop shots were working and he kept Mulloy backed up to the baseline with deep returns.

Sabin gained the finals by trouncing Gene Mako, Davis cup player, in the semi-finals. It was Sabin's fifth winter victory over Mako. Mulloy defeated Bryan M. Grant of Atlanta in the same round.

J. J. Healy's 98 Wins Glen View Trapshoot

J. J. Healy won the weekly trapshoot at the Glen View club yesterday with a score of 98. Fred L. McNally and Glen E. Smith tied for second with 96 and George Getz Jr., R. L. Lassater and Theodore Wickman tied for third with 95.

Leighton and Lamb Tied for Skating Lead

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Feb. 12.—(AP)—A victory in the senior men's five mile race today sent Charles Leighton of Minneapolis into a tie with Delbert Lamb of Milwaukee for first place in the North American speed skating meet.

With another day of racing still on the program, the two skaters, both members of the 1940 American Olympic team, led the field with 60 points each.

Tied for second with 40 points apiece were Eddie Schroeder, another Olympic skater, and Vic Ronchetti, the defending champion, both former winners of the Chicago Tribune silver skates derbies.

Bartholomew Far Back.

Don Johnson of Minneapolis, Tommy Smith of Saranac Lake, and William Shannon of Troy, N. Y., followed with 30 points each, while Kenny Bartholomew, the 18 year old Minneapolis national champion, trailed with 10.

Maddy Horn of Beaver Dam, Wis., women's national senior champion, walked away from the field in the mile final to take first place in her division with 80 points.

Mary Dolan, of Minneapolis, who placed second to Maddy in the mile, remained within striking distance at 70 points. Helen Bahil of Elmhurst, L. I., New York state and middle Atlantic champion, took a third in the mile to bring her point total to 20.

Janet Milne of Saranac Lake, defending titleholder, failed to place again today and was without a single point.

Kucera Can't Hold Lead.

Leighton came from behind to take the five mile event after Al Kucera of Chicago, an Olympic teammate, had led the field most of the way, only to fade badly in the last quarter. Ronchetti crossed the line only a stride behind Leighton, and Schroeder finished a close third.

Victory in the five mile race gave Leighton the Eddie Neil Memorial trophy, donated by Representative Michael J. Kennedy of New York to perpetuate the memory of the late sports writer and foreign correspondent for the Associated Press who was killed in Spain.

After winning the mile race yesterday, Lamb added to his point total today by coming in first in the half mile. Smith, who paced the Olympic flier up to the last few yards, took second, while Leighton placed third.

Tomorrow the skaters move to Lake Placid, where the final events will be run off in conjunction with the annual Lincoln's birthday open championship.

PEPSI-COLAS BEAT LAKE FOREST, 6-2; HORNETS WIN, 2-1

The Pepsi-Cola hocky team of the Arena amateur league defeated the Lake Forest Collegians, 6 to 2, yesterday to win their two game, total goals to count series, 7 to 2. The Pepsi-Colas won the first contest, 1 to 0.

The Pepsi-Colas dominated play throughout, scoring three goals in the first period, two of them by Eddie Janelle, adding one in the second and finishing up with two more in the third. The Collegians scored their goals in the second and third periods, Stan Evoy getting both of them.

In the second game of the doubleheader, the Hornets defeated the Planerts, 2 to 1, to stay three points behind the leading C. Y. O. Shamrocks in the Arena league standings. After both teams had gone scoreless in the first period, each counted in the second. George Vokac drove in the winning Hornet goal midway through the final period.

BABY RUTHS WIN THREE GAMES IN CLASSIC BOWLING

The Baby Ruths won three games from the Ambrosias last night in Archer-Kedzie Recreation and went into fourth place in the Sunday division of the Classic league.

The Power House Candys shot the evening's high total, 3,021, but lost two games to the Schlitz Beers. The leading Monarchs took all three games from the Thompsons, and the Pabsts swept their series with the Pragers.

Lander Meets Kid Covelli in Eight Rounds

Eddie Lander, 18 year old featherweight of the west side, will meet Frankie [Kid] Covelli, skilful veteran from Brooklyn, in an eight round bout tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

If he scores an upset Lander will gain national recognition.

In his last appearance Lander appeared to have whipped Johnny Brown, former Golden Gloves bantamweight champion, in Marigold arena Jan. 23, but the decision was called a draw. Previously Lander conquered Frankie Kainrath after the latter eliminated Eddie in last year's Golden Glove Tournament of Champions to pave the way for his victory in the bantamweight final.

Lander's Twelfth Conquest.

The Kainrath conquest was Lander's twelfth in fifteen professional fights. He lost two.

In his latest Covelli, who has boxed the best 126 pound boxers in the business, defeated Umio Gen in White City, Jan. 13. Prior to that victory he beat Al Mancini of Providence, R. I., in the Coliseum Dec. 29.

Frankie also holds verdicts over Willie Joyce, Lloyd Pine, Varias Milling, Jimmy Perrin, and Al Manriquez.

Motisi Meets Pallatin.

In the six round secondary feature Tony Motisi, Catholic Youth organization welterweight, meets Tommy Pallatin, former National A. A. U. lightweight titleholder, for the second time in less than a month. Last Jan. 23 the boys battled five rounds to a draw. Other matches, each four rounds, follow:

Johnny Williams vs. Alex Puz, 150.
Ernie Valente vs. Sol Robinson, 175.
Willie Kline vs. Charley Hudson, 140.

Pat Murphy will wrestle John [Bull] Doehring, former Chicago Bears football player, in the windup bout of the mat show this evening in Cicero stadium, 19th street and 52d avenue. Phil Gruber tackles Renaldo Ferro, Pete Holtz faces Jack Root. Rudy Hoffman also will appear. . . . King Kong meets Rufus Jones in the wrestling headliner in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, tonight. Chin Lee is paired with Al Williams, Young Caddock with Bob Jesson, Roy Rickenbacher with Joe Szabo, and Babe Kasaboski with Pete Bartu. . . . Milton Rand, amateur middleweight, will fight Leon Haris in Coulon's gymnasium, 1154 East 63d street, this evening. After the show a party will be held in honor of the 50th birthday anniversary of Johnny Coulon, bantamweight ruler from 1909 to 1914.

Speedy Estrella, Kansas City, Mo., flyweight, is in town looking for work. . . . George Kerwin, former Central A. A. U. featherweight winner, is the father of a boy, born Feb. 9. . . . Milt Aron, Chicago welterweight, will receive a $1,250 guarantee with a privilege of 12½ per cent of the gate receipts for his ten round bout with Johnny Barbara in the Coliseum Feb. 23. . . . Willie Joyce, Gary 126 pound sharpshooter, will resume drills today for his eight round rematch with Lew Jenkins of Sweetwater, Tex., in White City Friday.

C. Y. O. Quintet Scores 108 Points to Break Record

Distinguished the last two Sundays by brilliant individual scoring feats, Catholic Youth Organization basketball league activity was marked yesterday by heavy team scoring.

In St. Michael's gymnasium the powerful Immaculate Conception heavyweight quintet routed St. Joseph, 108 to 56, to break the league record. Yesterday's play also was marked by upsets of several previously unbeaten squads. Among them were the St. Andrew No. 1 lights, the strong St. Bernard heavies, St. Joseph's [Downers Grove] light and heavy teams, and St. Rose [KKK] and St. Mel lightweight fives.

Yesterday's results:

SNYDER WINS 40 LAP FEATURE ON MIDGET PROGRAM

Jimmy Snyder of Chicago won the forty lap main event auto race last night at the 124th Field Artillery armory. His time was 9:07.36.

Duncan led the race for ten laps, where Harry MacQuinn caught and passed him and led through the thirtieth lap when motor trouble eliminated him. Ted Duncan, meanwhile, lost second place because of a faulty motor.

Snyder, running third up to this point, moved up to take the lead. Pete Nielson was second, Ray Richards, third; Bert Knight, fourth, and Earl Simmons was fifth. Summaries:

FIRST ELIMINATION—Won by Harry Macquinn, Indianapolis; Marshal Lewis, Los Angeles, second; Duke Nalon, Chicago, third. Time, 2:50.03.

RAILWAY TO PAVE WAY FOR AIRPORT LAND ACQUISITION

Will Accept Track Moving Ordinance Tomorrow.

Officials of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad said yesterday they will file their formal acceptance of the city's airport expansion ordinance with City Clerk Peter J. Brady tomorrow. Thus the last legal formality will be disposed of and the city can begin acquiring land for relocating the tracks of the C. & W. I. which bisect the present landing field.

A strip of land a mile and a half long and thirty-three feet wide, north of 55th street, is to be secured by purchase or condemnation. It will be deeded to the railroad for use as a new right of way. Then the city will be able to tear up the tracks of the present right of way along the line of 59th street.

Landing Fields in Readiness.

The landing field on both sides of the tracks has been prepared for airport purposes. Now only the southern half, about 300 acres, is being used. When both sections are joined the airport will be 598 acres in extent, or approximately a mile square.

Railroad engineers have estimated that it will take nearly a year to construct the new right of way. This work will not start until all the land is available. The property is held by seventy-four individuals and estates of which a few, it is reported, will force the city to start condemnation proceedings.

Joseph F. Grossman, first assistant corporation counsel, said offers to purchase will be made as soon as the railroad's acceptance has been received. The condemnation suits should be before the County court by March 1, he added.

To save time, all property owners probably will be named in a blanket suit. Stipulations as to price then can be entered wherever the owners agree to sell outright, Grossman explained. This will prevent any of the owners from seeking damages at a later date.

Rail Acceptance Delayed.

The railroad's acceptance was delayed pending the passage of Chicago's 1939 budget. Officials of the C. & W. I. insisted that the $994,728 appropriation for expanding the airport be itemized as to the cost of each step.

In the budget, the cost is divided as follows: Purchase of the property for the new right of way, $200,000; laying of tracks and construction of new switching system, $587,081; and capitalization of the railroad's additional operating cost, $207,647. Against this, the city receives a credit of $34,242 for old rails, etc., leaving a net cost of $960,486.

Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, reported yesterday that more than 1,000 WPA laborers are still at work on the airport. They are finishing the paving work and completing the grading and sodding of land between the runway strips. Approximately $6,000,000 in city and federal funds has been spent in improving the field.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

U. S. Raises Bonus

February 12, 1939.

UNCLE SAM'S agents offer to pay more cash this year than last to get farmers to cooperate in the federal government's crop control program. The offer has been raised enough to attract many farmers who have refused to join previous programs managed by the Agricultural Adjustment administration. Last year about half of the farmers in the corn belt cooperated while the other half refused to take part in the plan.

Coöperation of those who believe in the plan and those who are skeptical hinges on the government check. Before going too far with their 1939 cropping plans, farmers generally want to be sure that congress appropriates a sufficient amount of money for use in making AAA payments.

Expect $100 More.

Farmers who appeared last week before AAA township committeemen in Kendall county were told that they would be paid special bonuses and price adjustment payments totaling 15 cents a bushel on corn and 29 cents a bushel on wheat for the average yields on their government allotted acreage.

On an average farm in Illinois the AAA payments offered for this year will be at least $100 more than last year.

Out in Kendall county one farmer with 160 acres of land is to be paid $349.25 for coöperating on the 1938 AAA program. This year he is offered a maximum payment of $473.45, or $124.20 more than last year.

On this farm of 160 acres there are 151 acres of cropping land. Last year he was permitted to grow 101.3 acres of such crops as corn and oats. His corn acreage allotment was 55.6 acres, averaging 42.4 bushels per acre. The corn bonus alone was $235.74. Then he was paid $88.66 for not exceeding his acreage allotment on grains and other crops, limited under the government plan. For planting approved crops, such as clovers, alfalfa, and soy beans, on 49.7 acres of his cropping land not used for grains and similar crops, he was paid 50 cents an acre or $24.85.

Last year the corn bonus was 10 cents a bushel while this year it is 9 cents a bushel. There was no price adjustment payment offered last year.

Averages $2.95 an Acre.

This year the Kendall county farmer is operating the same farm. In addition to the three payments offered last year he is offered a price adjustment payment of 6 cents a bushel on corn this year. His corn acreage allotment is 56.3 acres, averaging 44.2 bushels per acre. The corn price adjustment payment for 1939 will amount to $149.19. His corn bonus on the same acreage and yield will be $224.07.

Then for not exceeding his allotted acreage on grain and similar crops he will be paid $75.04. For planting approved crops on 50.3 acres he will be paid 50 cents an acre, or $25.15. These four payments total $473.45. The AAA payments for 1939 would average $2.95 an acre for the entire farm of 160.

To collect the special adjustment payments on corn or wheat a farmer cannot exceed his acreage allotment on these crops even one-tenth of an acre. On the other hand he must plant 80 per cent of his allotted acres to collect.

Steel Sales Barely Steady as New Construction Lags

Waning of demand for steel in new construction has thinned the flow of orders for the metal, the magazine Steel said yesterday. Demand is barely steady, Steel said. Despite this, it added, the national ingot production rate climbed 1 point to 54 per cent of theoretical capacity last week, a new high this year. Steel's scrap composite price rose 4 cents last week to $14.79 per ton.

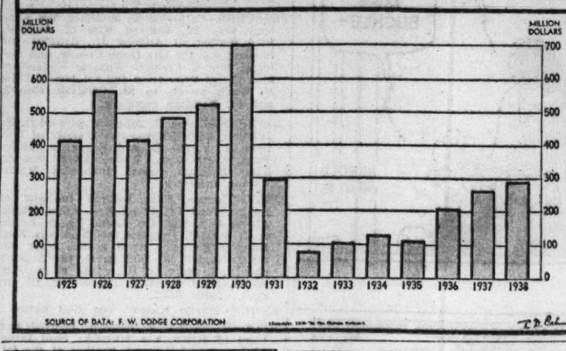
Contracts Awarded for Public Utility Construction 1925-1938



Investors' Guide

Monday, Feb. 13, 1939.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ADDS TO COST.

Investors' Guide: As a civic spirited resident of a small Illinois town, I generously subscribed for $1,000 of bank stock in the local bank in the irresponsible '20s. Naturally, the bank went under in the big crash, and, of course, they tried to assess the stockholders. After quite a squabble the assessment was put through, and I paid my $1,000 last year. I thought perhaps there might be some way in my 1938 income tax return that I could use this assessment to reduce my tax and get a little consolation for my folly. Is there?—A. K. R.

Answer: Payment of the assessment itself does not enter into your income tax return at all. The payment is considered, however, when you sell the stock or when and if it is declared worthless. The $1,000 assessment is added to the original $1,000 cost, making a cost of $2,000. Then, when you sell the stock or it becomes worthless, you will have a larger loss to deduct from your income than you would have had if there had been no assessment. This will help to reduce your income tax.

CELOTEX IN ENGLAND.

Investors' Guide: Does the Celotex corporation have any plants outside the United States?—T. R.

Answer: Yes, the company has a sizable plant near London which it operates through a British subsidiary, Celotex, Ltd. The plant was completed last year at a cost of $1,250,000, and has a yearly capacity of 45,000,000 feet of Celotex. Other plants are in this country.

"BIG STEEL" SUBSIDIARY.

Investors' Guide: Does the National Tube company have stock outstanding or is it owned by some other corporation? How are its earnings?

B. T.

Answer: The National Tube company is owned by the United States Steel corporation and does not issue separate earnings statements. Its plants are in Gary, Ind., and Lorain, O.

SEARS HAS ENCYCLOPEDIA.

Investors' Guide: Who publishes the Encyclopedia Britannica?—R. M.

Answer: It is published by Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc., which has been wholly owned by Sears, Roebuck & Co. since 1927.

SLEEPY WATER IS DEAD.

Investors' Guide: Is the Sleepy Water corporation still doing business?—D. K.

Answer: No, it went to sleep permanently in 1931, when it forfeited its Delaware charter.

U. S. Merchant Fleet Gaining, Congress Told

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—(AP)—The maritime commission told congress today that rehabilitation of the American merchant marine "is definitely under way."

"The long and dangerous decline of our merchant fleet has been checked, the process reversed, and progress forward has begun," the commission said in its annual report. "Prospects for the return of the American flag to a place upon the seas commensurate with our country's position as a world power are the brightest in many years."

52 New Ships Being Built.

At the end of 1938, the commission reported, fifty-two new ships of approximately 425,000 gross tons were under construction. [So far this year the commission has placed orders for fourteen additional ships.]

The commission said its efforts to improve service on "two essential trade routes vital to our foreign commerce culminated in October with the initial sailing of the 'good neighbor fleet' to the east coast of South America and the granting of an operating differential subsidy to the American President Lines for the trans-Pacific and round the world services operated by the former Dollar Steamship company."

Labor "Progress" Reported.

Improvement in relations between ship operators and their seagoing personnel during the last year, the commission said, "marks a forward step in the progress of the American merchant marine."

"The signing of east coast agreements by members of the American Merchant Marine institute and representatives of the maritime unions," the report added, "demonstrated a willingness to work out mutual problems in an orderly way."

CHAIN BELT CO. PROFITS IN 1938 DIP TO $436,763

Net earnings of the Chain Belt company, Milwaukee, amounted to $436,763 in 1938, C. R. Messinger, president, reported yesterday. In 1937 net income was $743,834, he said. The corporation makes conveying and construction machinery.

The 1938 net profit was equal to $1.25 a share, compared with $2.14 a share in 1937, Messinger said.

The Kroger Grocery and Baking company reported earnings of $3,741,569.13 for the fiscal year ending Dec. 31, 1938, or $2.05 a common share. In 1937 the shares paid $1.62 on earnings of $2,950,339.96.

BANKER TO BE 102 TOMORROW; STILL ACTIVE AT TASKS

Boston, Mass., Feb. 12.—[Special.]—Still active in business affairs, Edmund Reardon, vice president of the Union Savings bank, will celebrate his 102d birthday Tuesday, St. Valentine's day.

Mr. Reardon last week commuted to Boston by automobile to attend two directors' meetings. He has not missed such a meeting since 1891. Until last year he went in to work every morning. He said today that "I could still if I had to."

He attributed his long life to healthy parents and hard work, with the added explanation that he does not drink or smoke.

RATE INCREASE AIDS REVENUES OF PEOPLES GAS

Financial Changes Shown in Report.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Important financial adjustments by the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company were disclosed in the annual report to stockholders made public last night by George A. Ranney, chairman. The 1938 operating results, the statement showed, were better than those of the preceding year. Increased rates put into effect in 1938 over the objections of the Illinois commerce commission accounted entirely for the gain in revenues. Results of operations and financial adjustments set forth in the statement were:

George A. Ranney.

1. Revenues from gas sales increased 2.91 per cent, totaling $40,462,775. Without the rate increase such revenues would have been 3.87 per cent less than in 1937.

Net Income Compared.

2. Net income was $1,627,323, equal to $2.48 a share, not including $2,140,301 accruing from the rate increase. This compared with 1937 net income of $2,424,725, or $3.65 a share. The additional income arising from the rate increase was put in a special reserve fund pending final outcome of the case, which is on appeal before the Illinois Supreme court.

3. The company wrote off investments with a book value of nearly $8,000,000, using reserves previously provided for investment losses. The biggest item was an investment of $7,582,662 in the common stock of the bankrupt Midland United company. This stock, the company said, is considered worthless. Investment reserve remaining at the year-end was $271,169, compared with $8,065,528 a year earlier.

Pension Plan Modified.

4. The company modified drastically the employés' pension plan in effect prior to Sept. 1. Directors appropriated $2,175,000 from surplus to pay pensions at the old rate to employés who retired before Sept. 1 and to workers then near the retirement age. Future pensions will be paid at a reduced rate by an insurance company from the voluntary contributions of employés.

Chairman Ranney also reported that the company made an addition of $733,707 to the reserve of $4,203,869 created in 1936 to meet the maturity of bonds of the Ogden Gas company, due in 1945. This additional reserve was taken from surplus. The total is now sufficient, Ranney said, to cover the loss the company will take when the bonds are retired.

The Ogden Gas property was acquired in 1907 from the late Roger C. Sullivan, Chicago political leader. The company paid an inflated price for the property to bring an end to a gas rate war. Peoples Gas assumed $6,000,000 of Ogden bonds. When Sullivan's will was filed in 1921 it listed a big block of these bonds.

More Passengers Carried by Pennsylvania-Central

The Pennsylvania-Central Airlines yesterday reported nearly 2,000 more revenue passengers were carried last month than the line carried in January, 1938. The increase was 52 per cent.

Crowd Throngs Vatican City for Chance to See Pope's Body—Fleet Steams Up for War Games

The 15 acre piazza outside St. Peter's cathedral in Vatican City thronged with vast crowd of mourners awaiting their chances to enter the cathedral and file past the body of Pope Pius XI. This photograph, taken yesterday, was telephoned to London and sent to New York by radio.
